Definite Route Not As Yet Determined For Hoover's Summer Trip

Hoover Not To Become Embroiled In Any State Controversies

WASHINGTON, July 1.—As Congress prepares to wind up its hectic fifteen-month session, leaving only the special session of the Senate to ratify the Naval Treaty, President Hoover is devoting considerable attention to a long-deferred vacation itinerary.

As already announced, the president is planning to tour the National parks of the Rocky Mountain region in August, but it was learned today he also is speculating on the possibility of including Mexico, Cuba and the West Indies in his trip.

May Go Into Mexico

Dwight W. Morrow, who is retiring as ambassador to Mexico to run for the senate in New Jersey, has urged Mr. Hoover to visit Mexico while he is still there, and the invitation apparently has fallen on receptive ears.

SOUTHERN CROSS FLIERS WILL HOP ACROSS U. S.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 1.—Chicago, Salt Lake City and San Francisco will be given an opportunity to welcome the Ireland-New York fliers in the Southern Cross, according to plans announced by Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith today.

The Major and his three companions plan to takeoff in the Southern Cross tomorrow on a coast-to-coast trip, which, they expect, will take them three days.

"We are giving up somewhat regretfully our plan to attempt a non-stop flight," the Major said. "The weather conditions are such that we would be likely to meet headwinds much of the way."

"We plan, therefore, to start from Roosevelt Field at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, fly to Chicago, and spend the night there. The next day we will go on to Salt Lake City, and then top over the Rockies the third day to San Francisco and Oakland."

The Southern Cross will land on the same runway at Oakland airport from which it took off on its flight across the Pacific. The ship will be left in California, Major Kingsford-Smith said.

Roger Q. Williams and his two companions on the round-trip flight to Bermuda, meanwhile, continued to "rest up" today at their hotel. Their plans for the future are indefinite, they said.

Examination of the propeller of the Columbia, the ship used in the Bermuda flight, disclosed the fliers had a narrow escape from accident when they ran into a tropical storm during their trip. The metal sheathing of the propeller blades was worn almost through, it was revealed, and had the ship not escaped from the downpour when it did the probability is that it would have been wrecked.

SHOOTS WIFE AND EVANGELIST

Following the death of Mrs. Mildred Ross, upper right, 27-year-old victim of the insane jealousy of her husband, Frank, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., first degree murder charges will be filed against Ross, according to authorities. Ross, who shot his wife after killing the Rev. Edgar B. Wood, lower right, before his congregation in the Pentecostal Mission at Niagara Falls, shouted "good" when informed of his wife's death. Ross, shown at left after the shooting, believed his wife was in love with the Reverend Wood.

Fishing Not So Good

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1.—Although the fishing season for all types of fish opens full blast today, the finny occupants of the streams and lakes are reasonably certain of a day or two of grace to prepare for the 30 day battle for existence in some sections in the opinion of members of the State Board of Game Commissioners.

The weather, in the first place, the commissioners believe, by precipitating copious quantities of rain last night, muddled the streams, discouraging an early start by fishermen.

Then, with the Fourth of July coming along Friday and providing numerous followers of Isaac Walton with a full week-end, the fishing season probably will delay its wide-open swing until then.

Blanket Of Fog Peril To Fliers Above Chicago

"Ceiling" For Plane Is Now Only 200 Feet Above Ground

FLIERS NEARLY 60 HOURS OVER RECORD

Brothers Receive Ukelele To Play While Plane Is Droning On

(International News Service)

SKY HARBOR AIRPORT CHICAGO, July 1.—A heavy blanket of fog dropped down over Sky Harbor today, bringing added peril to the new endurance champions of the World, John and Kenneth Hunter, as they completed their 473rd hour aloft at 9:40 o'clock (E. S. T.).

The "ceiling" is now only 200 feet off the ground. Walker and Albert Hunter stated after taking breakfast and fuel to their brothers in the refueling ship. If it sinks still lower, John and Kenneth will be in serious danger.

May Move Plane

Feasibility of moving the City of Chicago out of the fog area was being contemplated. A cold drizzle is making conditions still more unfavorable.

Along with their breakfast, the endurance pilots received a ukelele in this morning's contact. The boys, both of whom play, want to relieve the monotony.

At 10:01 a. m. the "Chicago" had surpassed the old endurance mark by 33 hours.

Attorney General Now In Charge Of Dry Law Enforcement In Nation

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Uncle Sam's newest plan for drying up the United States got away to a flying start when the government opened for business at 9 a. m. today.

The prohibition bureau began to function under the direction of Attorney General Mitchell, instead of Secretary Mellon, though the latter retained the industrial alcohol bureau, the coast guard and the customs service, the latter being charged with the prevention of smuggling.

Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, until yesterday United States attorney at Baltimore, the new director of prohibition, had nothing to say definitely about his plans other than the conventional statement that he "intended to enforce the law."

All officials seemed to believe the new arrangement will bring about an improvement because the district deputy administrator will be in close touch with the United States attorneys, the offices of the latter having a big voice in enforcement activities.

The fact that frequently the United States attorneys have appealed to the prohibition bureau to make only important cases where there appeared a good chance for convictions, because of serious congestions in courts, indicated the new regime will not ask for as many indictments for violations of the dry laws, but will be able to get a bigger percentage of convictions.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 1.—We are a good natured bunch of saps in this country. When the president is wrong, we charge it to inexperience. When the tariff is wrong, we laugh it off. When congress is wrong, we charge it to habit.

When the Senate is right, we declare a national holiday.

When the market drops 50 points, we are supposed not to know it's through manipulation.

When a bank fails, we let the guy go start another one. When a judge convicts a murderer, that's cruelty.

When enforcement officers can't capture it fast enough to fill orders, that's good business.

Everything is cockeyed, so what's the use kidding ourselves?

This would be a hard world for kittens if it wasn't for the knack of getting sympathy. Pa New saw a little mite of a kitten in the window of a Farrell store, Monday afternoon. It was sound asleep on a match box and a large crowd of women circled the window, uttering such phrases as: "Dear little thing!" "Poor little sleepy head!"

Saw a small boy attired in a very modest bathing suit, Monday afternoon. The suit reached the lad's ankles. It was sun back and sun chest style.

This isn't exactly a new idea, but is clever, nevertheless. Pa New saw two automobiles being washed in the creek, at the corner of the Sharon-Farrell roads, yesterday. The cars received a nice bath and the water was right handy. The owners stood in the creek and were wearing rubber boots.

Reveal Another Chicago Murder; Blame Gangsters

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 1.—Gang warfare, which went into a sharp decline following the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter, claimed another victim today.

The body of an unidentified man, about 35, was found this morning in the Forest Preserve near Riverdale. He apparently was an Italian. His clothing consisted of tennis shoes, a gray cap, white striped shirt, and dark trousers. On the right arm were tattooed the initials F. L. T. He was about 5 feet 6 inches tall and 140 pounds in weight.

One bullet and drilled through his head. Location of other bullets was not determined.

Local Judge Fines Justice Of Peace For Court Contempt

MERCER, Pa., July 1.—In court here this morning Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand of New Castle fined Justice of the Peace John McKay of Greenville $10 and costs for contempt of court.

Squire McKay had been subpoenaed as a witness on a case which was tried last Saturday. He failed to appear and a process was awarded for him.

This morning when he was brought in he gave an excuse that he was busy hearing a case in his own court and so could not come to Mercer court on Saturday.

Lingle Trailer Believed Taken

Ten Members Of "Bugs" Moran Gang Are Captured In Surprise Raids

BELIEVE MOTIVE IS FOUND FOR KILLING

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 1.—Ten members of the George "Bugs" Moran gang among them the man who police say trailed Alfred Lingle, slain Chicago Tribune reporter, and pointed him out to the killer, were under arrest today.

The man alleged to have trailed the reporter on the afternoon he was shot down by a gangster's bullet is Grover Dullard, formerly a chauffeur for the Druggan Beer interests and now in the employ of Moran.

Seized with Dullard in two surprise raids made last yesterday by detectives were nine other Moran workers and a girl office attendant in the gang leader's "payoff" headquarters. Dullard has been sought for days, it was said, and according to information given shortly after the subway assassination of June 9, Dullard pointed Lingle out to the tall blonde killer employed to put the reporter on the "spot."

Investigators announced that they had definitely established the motive for the reporter's assassination. This motive goes straight to Moran, deadly enemy of "Scarface" Alphonse Capone, and involved Lingle's alleged use of police in harassing Moran's gambling interests on the North Side, according to detectives of the State's attorney's office.

Dullard is supposed to have provided the killer with the snubnosed 36 caliber revolver which the assassin dropped beside Lingle's body. Investigators said, Dullard, the girl Henrietta Smith and six of the gangsters were seized in Moran's "payoff" headquarters in a Michigan avenue building. The other two were seized in the Commonwealth hotel.

CONSIDER CHANGES IN DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Three recommendations for changes in dry law enforcement statutes put forward by President Hoover's law enforcement commission, were slated for approval by the senate judiciary committee today as congress debated the question of continuing the life of the commission itself.

The measures, already passed by the house, would reduce penalties under the Jones "five and ten" law for minor violators, allowing waiver of jury trials, and define petty offenses under the law.

The penalty reduction measure would allow a maximum of $500 fine or six months imprisonment or both for sale by a person "not habitually engaged in violation of the law," of not more than a gallon of liquor for the unlawful manufacture of a similar amount by a similar violator, or for the unlawful sale or transportation under the same circumstances.

"Petty offenses" would be defined under another of the measures, as all those, the penalty for which does not exceed confinement in a common jail without hard labor for a period of six months or imprisonment for six months or both. Such offenses, under the bill, could be prosecuted upon information or complaint.

The last of the provisions would authorize the waiving of jury trial in all criminal prosecutions within the jurisdiction of U. S. district courts when the accused, in open court, demanded such procedure under such regulations as the court might prescribe.

Members of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will definitely accept or reject the 1931 convention offer at their meeting to be held in the Legion Home Association building, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The meeting is expected to prove one of the most interesting of the year.

State Gas Tax Now Three Cents

Decrease Of One Cent Means $8,000,000 Revenue Drop In Year

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 1.—The one additional cent of the gasoline tax which was lifted at midnight should save Pennsylvania motorists roughly $8,000,000 a year, according to uncompleted estimates of the gasoline tax collection bureau in the department of revenue. The tax is now three cents instead of the four cents prevailing for the past year.

Officers of the bureau, however, point out that accurate estimates of savings are impossible and that the actual revenue loss will vary according to the use of the tax. The four-cent tax during the 11 months for which reports have been filed produced $29,586,000. The estimated total for June will be $3,250,000, making a total of $32,836,000 for the year.

The previous year the three-cent tax produced $24,355,000.

The adoption of the four-cent gasoline tax for a period of one year was considered the high light of the 1929 session of the legislature. Despite the efforts of legislative leaders Governor John S. Fisher insisted the gasoline tax be raised to four cents to permit a road building program unparalleled in the history of the commonwealth.

Arthur Mometer

There have been a lot of cracks, when you spoke of four cent tax, and the motorist would snort his outraged ire, and his eyes would gleam and flash as he dug down for the cash, and his words were warm enough to be on fire. But today the tax is down, and when you buy red or brown gasoline to run the clock you call your own, you will find one cent is off and you will not have to cough quite as much for gas when you start out to roam. Now the tax is only three, but it just occurs to me, that the price will soon be boosted up a cent, just to make you feel at ease when you're buying gas and grease, so you'll know the price is just the same you're used to. But the tax is down a red, and you're just that much ahead when you fill'er up and start upon your way, but don't count too much as get, for I wouldn't want to bet, that the price will raise, it's seventy five today.

Pennington Now In Philadelphia

Assumes Charge Of Dry Enforcement Bureau In Eastern District

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Enforcement of the prohibition law passed officially into the hands of the department of justice today and Commander J. D. Pennington of Pittsburgh assumed charge of the Philadelphia office as administrator for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

Col. Samuel O. Wynne, former administrator for this district, at the same time became supervisor of industrial alcohol permits for this area. His last act was to send letters of commendation and thanks to Director of Public Safety L. B. Schofield and District Attorney John Monaghan. A dinner and dance was given him last night.

Pennington arrived here from Pittsburgh during the forenoon and registered at the Benjamin Franklin hotel. Col. Wynne announced the appointment of three aides. They are Dr. Ambrose Hunsberger, Philadelphia; William M. Tonkey, Pittsburgh; and William J. L. Sullivan in Newark, N. J.

Files New Reasons In Dague Appeal

Attorneys File Supplemental
Plea For New Trial
Of Defendant

ALLEGED ERRORS IN TRIAL PROCEDURE

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, who with Attorney Benjamin Jarrett, of Harrisburg, filed a supplemental plea for a new trial in the case of the late George Dague, charged with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, this afternoon filed a supplemental plea to that already filed asking a new trial, in which additional reasons are given.

Argument on these and the other reasons for a new trial will come up for argument on the week of July 7, during which same session of argument court, the appeal of Irene Schneider, under conviction in the same case, will also be heard.

The reasons advanced in brief are: First—That the court erred in admitting a photograph taken at the Baldwin home over objection of defense counsel.

Second—In admitting another photograph taken at the same place, over the objection of defense counsel.

Third—In admitting a photograph taken at Zeigler home, over objection of defense counsel.

Fourth—In refusing to withdraw a juror and continue the case on the argument developed in regard to questions asked Dague concerning the presence of E. A. Lorkey in the office of the governor of Arizona and alleged statements of Dague as to being up against it in Pennsylvania and to his alleged statement that "I plucked Brady Paul. Irene thinks she did it, but I know" over the objection of defense counsel.

Fifth—In overruling objection of defense counsel to Margiotti's offer to prove by Sheriff Charles Wright the alleged confession made to Sheriff Wright by Dague.

Sixth—In refusing to withdraw juror on Attorney Dickey's objection to remark of Attorney Margiotti asking the jury to bear in mind the shooting of Officer Wright and Officer Butterfield in Arizona.

Seventh—In refusing to withdraw juror on improper remark of Attorney Margiotti in his argument to jury such as "If you believe him (Dague) you will trample down justice and encourage banditry and encourage crime."

His conduct shames a Jesse James."

Eighth—In charging the jury "rarely does the trial of a criminal present evidence of the commission of so many criminal acts as does this case."

Tenth—In charging the jury "the officer's drawing of his gun, even if he drew it first, was legally justified and furnishes no legal defense to the person or persons, who killed the deceased."

Eleventh—In charging the jury "the criterion of this type of murder of the first degree is where we have all these malicious circumstances present and the conscious purpose to take life, etc."

Twelfth—In charging the jury that "to give the defendant the benefit of any reasonable doubt arising out of the evidence which prevents coming to a satisfactory conclusion, but such doubt must arise out of the evidence and not to escape the consequence of an unpleasant duty, etc."

Thirteenth—In charging the jury that "the killing occurred in a robbery, all are equally guilty under the law, etc."

Fourteenth—In charging the jury concerning the fact that is up to the jury to determine the degree and also the punishment for first degree murder and the manner in which they are to arrive at their decision.

Fifteenth—In charging the jury on the theory of defense that is that the fatal shot was not fired by the defendant or any members of his party.

Sixteenth—In charging the jury as to the fact that the jury must set the degree and the nature of punishment and not following it with words that all evidence must be considered carefully and extend mercy, if warranted, etc."

Seventeenth—In charging the jury that the defendant was charged with the highest crime known to law and that in consideration of the case that the jury should not be blind to the interest of society in the pity for the defendant. That neither sympathy or prejudice should have any place in their deliberations. Etc."

Eighteenth—In refusing to withdraw a juror and continue the case on objection to counsel for the defendant to the statement of the court during the testimony of Book, who drove up on the scene of the shooting, which was as follows: "Just a minute. These people in the audience who are seeking amusement may have and go to a picture show. We are not conducting a show here and we have little patience with Americans who can obtain much more out of the death of an officer, however caused."

On some farms, according to a local farm owner, the raspberry crop is better than in recent years, and on farms the crop is terrible. It is the same way with cherries.

Pa New was told this morning that there will be no Baldwin or Northern Spy apples this season, because of the frost of a month ago.

Here is a rather peculiar fact told to Pa New this morning. A crop of corn, vegetables or an orchard that is planted above a coal vein, is much less likely to freeze than a crop growing below a coal vein. This fact was illustrated by the frosts which destroyed many crops in Lawrence county a month ago.

PRESIDENT MAY INCLUDE MEXICO IN HIS JOURNEY

Morrow will remain in Mexico City until September.

He pointed out to the president that when he reaches the southwest in the course of his park tour he could easily continue south into the neighboring republic.

The president failed to visit Mexico, Cuba and the West Indies in the course of his South American good will tour before inauguration and at the time promised he would make a special trip to include those points early in his administration. If he accepts the Morrow invitation it is likely he will go from Mexico City on to Havana and Port au Prince.

Politics Adjourned
Some changes are being made in the tentative western schedule also it was learned. Originally, it had been planned to visit Estes Park, but a heated senatorial fight there has decided Mr. Hoover against going into Colorado. Mount Ranier in Washington will be substituted.

It is likewise doubted that the president will enter his home state of California. Here again politics is the reason. He does not want to become involved in the gubernatorial fight also. His home at Palo Alto has been leased.

A matter stand now, the executive probably will make two or three speeches in the course of his swing. A stop is planned on the way west at the Twin Cities and he may deliver one of them there. Another may be made on the west coast, and a third might be made at Kansas City if his itinerary should include that stop.

These speeches will be made in the nature of defenses of his administration against Congress during the turbulent months just passed. He has been counseled against making an extended speaking tour but it is conceded a president hardly could make a swing around the country without making two or three addresses.

WILLIAMS AND TIBBS had been "on the outs" for years. As a matter of fact more than once their dispute took the form of blows wherever and whenever they met.

One day Tibbs appeared in the home of Williams carrying a pistol in his hand. He made his way straight to the basement where he knew Williams was tinkering.

Williams hearing "footsteps" descending the basement steps turned around, and seeing Tibbs there with a revolver in his hand, snatched one which he had in his pocket and shot Tibbs dead.

Williams was soon put on trial. His attorney pleaded self-defense but the prosecution had argued that Tibbs was only carrying the revolver and had not even leveled it at Williams.

STAR LORE MIGHTY RADIATION GENERATOR—A STAR

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
THRILLING INTERESTING is the way a star is supposed to create and project its radiation. What radiates? It is not matter, but the release of energy by the occasional collision of an electron with a positive particle of electricity or proton that theoretically results in annihilating both particles (matter). That which escapes is energy. This energy, now deep down in the star, struggles to escape in the form of light and heat consisting of vibrations of varying wave lengths. Some of these vibrations escape in outer space, while most of them are re-absorbed by atoms remote from the star's surface. All we know of a star reaches us via its radiation.

Says Girls Fear Financial Risk Of Matrimony

PARIS, July 1.—Why don't women marry these days? The main reason is because they don't wish to take any risk, says Edith Sitwell, well-known English author who answers the question in the continental issue of the Daily Mail.

The "risks" she speaks of are mainly financial ones. Women today, she finds, are not willing to be poor with men, not even if they love them.

Then too there is the risk of marrying a man who swears he will turn over a new leaf, which he very rarely ever does.

Other women, according to Miss Sitwell, show a disinclination toward taking on the responsibilities of keeping house and thus prefer to remain single.

Cowardice and laziness prevent many women from marrying. And there are countless others who would like to meet marriageable men, but who are out of it for all communication with them, buried to a life of loneliness in faraway country towns where the presence of young men is rarely known.

The term "unwanted women" is as foolish as it is unkind, concludes the writer, for she believes the soul scarcely exists who is unwanted.

"There is surely love enough for everybody," says Miss Sitwell, "and there are very few people who can complain that life passed them by. That young women should want to understand a little of the world before they marry is not only natural, but also sensible. But I wish they would believe more in the eternal things."

"Perhaps they do, and that is one reason for hesitation, since women no longer marry as a profession or out of hopelessness, as they did fifty years ago. And that is all to the good—for that attitude was the most cynical of all."

Installation Of Officers Marks
Noon Day Session At Elks
Club Today

At the inauguration of new club officers which marked today's meeting of the New Castle Elks club, Earl T. Ramsey was formally installed as president, succeeding E. D. Marvyn, who has been at the helm of club activities during the past year. The entire roster of new officers took office, with retiring president Marvin officiating as the installing officer.

Following the installation today, William M. Nunn, local golfer, explained some of the difficult points of the game and demonstrated how the game should be played.

Nick Nicholas, who conducts a barbershop at 106 1-2 West Long avenue was awakened from his sleep about two o'clock this morning, by noises in the front part of the shop, to which his bedroom was adjacent.

On getting up, he saw two colored men running through the alley. Officer Thomas came upon the scene shortly afterwards and investigated. He found three pocketbooks, some chewing gum and a box of cigars, which these men had dropped in their hurried getaway on being discovered.

It was found that entrance had been effected through a window and that $6 to $7 in money, some silk handkerchiefs, pocketbooks, gum and cigars had been taken.

NEW CONTROVERSY ON PENSION BILL

for as low as 10 per cent disability while the administration bill would start relief only to veterans 25 per cent disabled. Both groups would pension only to those veterans disabled but not by their own misconduct in time of peace.

The administration rates, it was stated, would cost the government $31,000,000 the first year, increasing to $82,000,000 in the fifth year. The Democratic rates, it was stated, would cost $58,000,000 the first year, increase to $107,000,000 the fifth year. Other provisions of the bill would add from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 to this cost.

It was also stated that administration provisions would admit 150,000 men to pensions, while the Democratic amendment would give pensions to 288,000. It was further declared the amendment would increase the average pension from $18 to $20 a month.

There appeared little doubt but that the president would veto the bill if the higher rates prevailed. Consequently administration leaders were concentrating on holding the cost of the bill to the limits acceptable to the White House.

If they lose in the senate, they hoped to win by having the house reject the increases so the senate either would have to kill the bill or take the administration's range.

Dullard's arrest was regarded as the first important one since Lingle was killed. According to authorities Lingle was watched and trailed through the loop for three weeks prior to his death.

Lingle was ordered slain, it was said, because he defied Moran when the latter planned to open the Sheridan Wave Club, a gambling resort. Lingle demanded a "split" of 40 per cent in return for a guarantee of police protection, investigation has disclosed, and at this Moran is reported to have balked.

Police Hold Man For Shooting Wife

Following Long Questioning Man
Admits He Shot Wife
Three Times

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., July 1.—Police today are holding Granville Harlow, 27, for questioning in the shooting of his wife Mrs. Sarah Harlow, 40, who was shot twice in the breast yesterday. State police investigated the shooting and said Harlow at first told them a burglar wounded his wife. He said he was putting his car away when he heard shots. Running to the house, he said he found her wounded. The wife confirmed the story.

A different version of the shooting came from Anna Davis, 17, niece of the couple who lives with them. She told police they said her aunt told her she was shot by Harlow following a quarrel.

Further grilling of Harlow, police said, resulted in his admission to wounding his wife. He said he fired at his wife three times but the third shot went wild.

DOUBLE WEDDING OF LOCAL INTEREST

The Methodist Episcopal district parsonage of 929 West Ninth street, Erie, was the scene of a pretty double wedding ceremony Thursday June 26, when Miss Eleanor M. Locke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Locke of R. D. 9 this city, became the bride of Ernest A. Brooks of New Castle, and Miss Sylvia K. Gerber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gerber, of Beaver Falls, was united in marriage to Merle Brooks of New Castle. The bridegrooms are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brooks of R. D. 5, New Castle.

The wedding nuptials were read at 1:30 o'clock by the Rev. Alfred C. Locke, pastor, a cousin of Mrs. Ernest Brooks before an embankment of palms. The Misses Locke and Gerber were attractive in gowns of pouf blue chiffon with shoulder corsages of Dresden shades with accessories to match.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the parsonage at a table beautifully decorated most fitting to the occasion, after which the newly married couples left for a Canadian honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brooks are now at home to their friends at 225 Pearson street, the former being associated with the American Gulf Co. here.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Brooks will also take up their residence in this city where Mr. Brooks is employed with the American Can Company, Elkhart.

Fairweather-Kirkwood Wedding.

A beautiful wedding of Saturday morning was that of Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kirkwood, R. D. 1, and John Fairweather, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Sherrick Spayde, 1815 Hamilton street, which occurred at the parsonage of the Savannah M. E. church with Rev. C. L. Downs officiating with the ring ceremony. The bride was charmingly gowned in a frock of green peacock with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of Carolina roses. They were unattended and only members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony.

Supplementing the wedding was a dinner served in the home of the bride's parents, in which relatives and friends joined in a reception for the couple.

Following a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Fairweather will be at home at 1901 Hamilton street.

TOO MANY TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

NEW CASTLE, like every other city that has heavy traffic on its streets, is afflicted with too many traffic accidents.

Many are minor, but far too many are serious, resulting in loss of life or injury to drivers or pedestrians.

While strict enforcement of the traffic laws would get some results, it is realized full well that New Castle and no other city has enough traffic cops, motorcycle police officers, etc., to watch every street, or every danger spot in the city.

It becomes the duty of every auto driver and every pedestrian to join the crusade to abolish traffic accidents. In many instances parents of children are at fault for accidents, in allowing the children to run the streets at an immature age.

It will be necessary to use every means at our command; strict enforcement of the traffic laws, greater voluntary effort on the part of drivers to observe safety first, and stricter supervision of children by parents on streets where there is much traffic, if we are to succeed in reducing our daily list of casualties from auto traffic.

Why not a little co-operation all around in this matter of cutting down accidents? Let every driver on the streets and highways pay more attention to safety.

Do a little accident preventing yourself.

A CHEERFUL ENGLISH VISITOR

Lord Derby is one of the most popular of Englishmen. The Stanley family, of which he is the head, has had many distinguished sons. One of the best known was the Earl whose fiery eloquence led Bulwer, the first Lord Lytton, to call him the Rupert of debate; he won a different kind of honor by his scholarly translation of the Iliad. The present Earl has been Secretary for War and Ambassador to France, but perhaps he is even better known as a sportsman. Returning to England after his recent visit to America to see the Kentucky Derby, he has revealed in his comments about this country some of the qualities that have endeared him to all who know him.

He has just told the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce that it is a mistake to imagine that the American people are always talking of money. He is not surprised that they resent the charge. The chief topic of discussion, he observed humorously, is "prohibition and how best to avoid it." This conclusion bears the test of experience. Again he defended the American newspaper reporters. He had been told he would be bothered by them, but he was not. "No body of men," he said, "could have shown me greater consideration." This testimony should offset that of some other English visitors.

One of those whom he met was Senator Borah, whom many regard as a bitter enemy of England. Lord Derby did not find him so. On the contrary the two got on so well that the Senator will visit England next year as Lord Derby's guest of nothing intervenes to prevent. Perhaps by that time the country will be safe enough to permit Mr. Borah to leave it. There must be something very attractive about the English nobleman if the Senator, who has never been looked upon as an especially companionable person, has struck up such a friendship with him. The Inquirer of Philadelphia. Lord Derby seems to be a notable exponent of "hands across the sea."

IN THE CHURCHES

There are 55 church members out of every 100 persons over 13 years of age in America. The proportion is about the same as 10 and 20 years ago. It disproves the claim that there has been a heavy falling off in church membership in proportion to population.

The figures are from a survey and report by the Institute of Social and Religious Research, an organization financed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The figures indicate that the growth of church membership in this country, except in the large metropolitan centers, has kept pace since 1906 with the increase in the country's adult population, while the value of church property has increased enormously. An interesting sidelight is that whereas 58 per cent of the people living in towns and cities are church members, only 52 per cent of the rural inhabitants are church members. Nearly half of the Protestant ministers are not graduates of either college or seminary. Returns from most of the churches show that five women are church members for each four men.

The figures show 212 separate denominations in the United States, with 232,000 churches and 44,380,000 members, with 21,000,000 pupils in denominational Sunday schools, exclusive of children registered in undenominational Sunday schools and in parochial schools.

Value of church edifices, not including pastors' residences, investment properties, school buildings, hospitals and other properties, is placed at $3,300,000,000.

And incidentally, from which the leavening influence of religious inclinations may be surmised, the report points out that in those states in which the suicide rate tends to be high the proportion of population with church affiliation tends to be low.—The Portland Oregon Journal.

ROAD TO SUCCESS

In the attainment of solid, well-founded success there has never been found a substitute for honest labor with the hands or minds. The ages have recognized this as an immutable truth, yet every age, including the present, has had its skeptics, its unbelievers, its seekers after fame and fortune without paying the price in work.

Some sage has said that to attain success use half as much effort as you would exert in attempting to seek success without work. There is much wisdom in the axiom that it takes less mental effort to climb to legitimate success than to climb to an illegitimate success. Legitimate achievement requires no fortifications, no protection. Illegitimate achievement demands more in its attainment than in its attainment.

It is a gross injustice to humanity to say that if there is any one thing more than another, that entitles very much of the attention, time and effort of the people it is in scheming and planning to get something of value for nothing. The number of society's parasites is large but the number of honest, hard-working supporting pillars of society is preponderantly larger.

Our reaction to some memoirs is that it is just as well statesmen don't have nine lives, like cats.

How comforting on these sultry days, when all else is sticky and disagreeable, to be a postage stamp!

Half Of Dull 1930 Gone.
1,500 Communists, One Weeps.
To Tax The Unmarried.
A Forlorn Farm Hope.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1930, King Features
Synd., Inc.)

The half year of 1930 ended Monday, with no conspicuous signs of industrial or other improvement.

The number of unemployed is estimated at 6,000,000 greater than in any other nation.

However, President Hoover's various commissions find bright spots here and there. And there is comfort in knowing that when you get to the bottom of the hill, the road must go up. The extraordinary thing is that our best minds, so well supplied with solemn wisdom in prosperity, have not the vaguest idea as to what is the matter with us.

Fifteen hundred Communists tried to free India, by way of the British consulate, in lower New York City, on Saturday, throwing stones, making speeches. They included a vigorous young girl, who shattered a plate glass window, cutting up her "comrades" with flying glass, and a young Harvard student, Lawrence D. Cohen. When arrested he told the police with tears, that his Harvard professor had told him "to get out among workers and take an interest in their condition."

Trying to free India at long range was taking the advice too seriously.

Young Mr. Cohen typifies many that descend from their "class" to interest themselves in workers or free some nation of which they know little. Said Cohen:

"I came down here to take an interest in the workers and get beaten up. I want to go to a hospital immediately."

Those young Communist boys and girls, and their leader, a majority quite sincere, should travel beyond Battery Park to the edge of the Ganges. They would see the burning ghat, with corpses smoldering, dead bodies floating on the sacred river, pilgrims drinking the poisonous water, the streaming blood of thousands of goats, poured out to please strange gods, an occasional young widow secretly burned alive with old husband's body, child wives, moaning at dying in childbirth, at ten years of age. A visit to India would make them less eager to drive our British, seeking to civilize.

The civilizing is done, for a profit and the glory of the Empire of course. But how did we civilize our Indians?

Germany plans to tax spinsters and bachelors to help balance the budget. Women and men, unmarried, according to German theory, are not doing their share.

Unmarried women might reply: "Show us a man worth while; otherwise we'd rather be taxed."

A tax on unmarried women, under 45, would be desirable in this country, if it would drive into marriage intelligent young women now single. The greatest loss to the nation is the loss of millions of superior children, that would be born if intelligent young females could be persuaded to take men as they are, and not expect too much.

The French say: "At night all cats are gray." After marriage one husband is much like another, unless he is a fool, a drunkard or brutal.

Mr. Legge of the Farm Board, says organization is the farmer's only hope.

More organization without application of modern industrial methods would be a forlorn hope. Organizing ten thousand little wheelwright shops would not produce a modern automobile industry. You need a new system of production.

Mr. Leggie should investigate Russia's 1,000,000-acre farm for mass production, and on his return, question closely the Montana farm expert now on his way to advise the Russian government.

A team of horses or a small tractor, turning corners every few minutes in a small field, will not produce profitable wheat.

Fences should come down and giant tractors should go in a straight line for miles. Montana uses a cultivator 60 feet wide.

Use of modern agricultural machinery, reducing the cost of crop production, should be the rule.

If the government would supply and rent the machinery, or give it outright organizing farming as it organized work on the Panama Canal, something might be done.

The millions used trying to corner wheat and bolster the price might really bring a farm problem solution.

Make our farming the most efficient in the world, like our automobile and moving picture industries, and like them, America farming will conquer the world.

Mrs. Della Akeley returns from the land of the African pygmies much impressed with the good qualities of these little people. She thinks it a pity that they should be vanishing rapidly.

Sometimes they eat each other, but they are affectionate, keep their word and have other good qualities.

It becomes a pleasure to remember that all our ancestors were once cannibals. Only the races that ate human flesh regularly, or in case of emergency, survived.

The others had no meat to give their children in times of famine.

Policeman, at scene of murder: "You can't be here."
Reporter: "But I've been sent here to do the murder."
Policeman: "Well, you're too late; the murder's been done."

Sun sets tonight 7.55. Sun rises tomorrow 4.33.

We will celebrate the Fourth of July week, or rather the fourth of July comes on Friday of this week. We often wonder how many people know why the Fourth of July should be celebrated.

$300,000 FIRE HAILED BY TOLEDO DAILY

The most unusual head and lead ever used in a disaster story in Toledo was carried in the Toledo Blade last week on the fire which destroyed the Toledo Union station.

The 96-point streamer said, "Thousands Cheer as Union Station Burns" and the lead ran "The main section of the Union station, Toledo's oldest joke, was destroyed in a spectacular $300,000 fire Tuesday night, while thousands cheered and jeered. Each puff of destructive flame, each billow of acrid smoke was greeted with cheering applause."

Newspapers and civic organizations have worked for years to have the old station, built in 1885, replaced. The day after the fire the Blade, News-Bee and Times all carried editorials demanding the New York Central railroad owner of the station, build a new one. Editor and Publisher Note: Please no uncivil conduct on the part of New Castle citizens.

A Former New Castle Lady Now Living in Chicago Asked Us Last Week When "The Old Settlers Picnic" Was to Be Held in New Castle This Summer.

What We Heard and Saw at the Rotary Convention in Chicago Last Week.

No doubt most readers of this column noticed that the Hints and Dints man was off the job for five days, having been in Chicago attending the Annual Convention of Rotary International. This column was much better.

While we were there Rev. C. M. Small, formerly pastor of the First Christian church of this city, called on us at the Congress Hotel. We were not in but the doctor left a note. He is a Rotarian and lives at Valparaiso, Ind. We are sorry we missed him.

We had the pleasure of having a short visit with Sir Henry Thornton, formerly of this city, who made probably the most outstanding address of the entire Rotary convention. He made a big hit. We were glad to see him even for the few minutes he had to spare with us.

It was our pleasure to again have a short visit with Paul Harris, the founder of Rotary. We spent a week with him several other prominent Rotarians at Miami two years ago. Mr. Harris is not a bit well and he only appeared twice at the convention and could say very little. He sent a message to the convention in writing which was read by the president and received with great applause.

We had the pleasure of meeting a lot of Western Pennsylvania folks, from Beaver Falls, New Wilmington, Butler, Ellwood City, Pittsburgh and in fact from most every place in Western Pennsylvania.

We also had the pleasure of a visit to Gary, Ind. We were in that place about twenty years ago and there were only about a dozen houses in the place. It has about 100,000 population now and still growing. If any person wants any pointers about building a court house or city hall, they should visit Gary before they do a thing. Right in the heart of Gary they have a big plot of ground, about four city blocks. They have torn down all the buildings on this ground. Right through the center of this ground is a wide street and on each side of this street, on a corner, are located the city and county buildings. They are beautiful buildings and are helping to build up Gary. The City Building is on one corner and the court house on the other and there is a block or two of ground in the rear of each building. This land may come handy later and there is also adequate provision made for all kinds of room for parking cars. This is the kind of stuff that builds cities.

One of the most interesting sights in Chicago last week and also for some time before was the world's retelling endurance record. The plane "City of Chicago" could be seen any time of the day and often heard during the night. Seeing the ship being refueled was a common sight.

There Should Be More Signs in New Castle Reading "No Parking Here At Any Time"

We Have Few, If Any Such Signs Here and Many of The Regular Signs Are Knocked Down so Some Birds Can Park Their Cars Where They Were.

We have known people who would be willing to part with some perfectly good coin if they could get the hide of some neighbors pup that kept howling the worst kind of static all night long.

India Commission's Findings Studied With Sympathy Here

American And Canadian Opinion Inclines To Approval Of Sincerity Of Investigators And Finds Initial Step In Attempts Toward Unity

The sincerity of the efforts to achieve some form of unity in India is accepted on this side of the Atlantic, as the reports of the Simon Commission are made public. The difficulties to be encountered in an attempt to establish self-government, and some similarity to the Philippine problem of the United States are pointed out. It is suggested that it is doubtful if the present leaders of nationalism in India will find satisfactory offers in the two sections of the Simon report. The principle set up is "progressive realization of responsible government."

Difficulties in connection with the Moslems are pointed out by the ERIE DISPATCH-HERALD with the statement as to present conditions: "Vastly in the minority in India, the Moslems still see much to be gained by the present difficulties. Given a free hand, they would soon gain dominance over the legathic Hindus. Thus India stands on the verge of a minor, perhaps even a major, crisis. The forces raised by Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign have carried it far beyond the bounds he set. Passive resistance has become active. The British have been compelled to call in additional forces to curb them. The Moslems, ever willing to fight, see in any real freedom for India a chance to rise and take control by the sword."

Popular interest among the English people is commended by the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, which points out that "the first volume of the Simon commission report has become a best seller," as an edition of 17,000 copies printed by the government "sold out in three days at 75 cents a copy," and the Sentinel makes the comment: "It may be said for the English that, however, they govern India, they are interested in what goes on in that troublesome limb of the empire. Americans do not profit by a comparison. Supposing the printers in Washington had run off 17,000 copies of the Wickersham committee's report. Would 17,000 Americans have been interested enough in that report to buy them? The answer is 'no.' And the answer would be the same if an American commission were to make a study of the Philippine situation and it were to be printed for public consumption. English are interested in what their governors are doing."

A feeling of "disappointment" is voiced by the TORONTO DAILY STAR, "not because the findings do not favor many valuable reforms, but because the report does not bring India within sight of dominion home rule which it feels it was promised; also, because the report describes convincingly many difficulties that stand in the way of granting complete self-government. The commission makes it plain that it believes the progress toward autonomy will be painful as well as slow. Yet its report is so worded as to impress the reader with the sincerity of its authors desire that the program of self-determination shall proceed as rapidly in India as in the way of granting complete self-government. Industrial And Utility Stocks Move Up Today

Atchison Leads Rails With 8½
Point Rise; New York
Central Up 4½

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial

NEW YORK, July 1.—The influence of the July interest and dividend money was seen in the stock market today, when a score or more of the best known industrial and utility favorites moved ahead to the best levels in the current recovery. Close to a billion dollars in payments to security holders will be made within the next ten days and already the stock market has felt the effects of buying demand generated by this generous fund.

The best buying of the day appeared in the dividend payers in all groups. Atchison led the rails with an 8 1-2 point rise to 214 1-2, while New York Central advanced 4 1-2 to 169 3-4.

American Can, United States Steel, General Electric and other industrial favorites registered slightly better than the highest prices recorded since last Thursday, when the rally from the bottom began. A number of 10-600 share blocks of the popular stocks were taken over, reflecting in part the short covering of big professional. United States Steel sold above 161, completing a 10 point rally from the low of last week, while Vanadium recovered 4 1-2 points and Westinghouse 3. The bulls followed up their advantage in the fourth hour taking their cue from a risk rally in the grain market.

Pinchot's Lead In State Is 20,000

Final Returns Are Tabulated At Harrisburg By Elections
Bureau

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 1.—Former Governor Gifford Pinchot has a lead of 20,099 votes over Francis Shunk

Brown of Philadelphia for the Republican nomination for governor, according to the official tabulations made today by the state bureau of elections.

As soon as the delayed Luzerne county totals were received the election bureau began the tabulation of the returns as usual regardless of the appeal of the Brown forces now pending before the state supreme court.

The bureau's tabulation showed Pinchot's total vote was 632,719 and that of Brown 612,629.

Thomas W. Phillips, Butler, received 281,329 votes for governor and Joseph D. Herben, Philadelphia Negro, 7,896.

Including scattering votes, the bureau's totals showed 1,534,657 Republicans voting in the gubernatorial primary. The total was approximately 50,000 over that cast for any other office on the state-wide ticket.

John M. Hemphill, West Chester, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, received 121,157 votes. In addition, 5,976 scattering Democratic votes were cast.

Until the supreme court acts finally on the request of the Brown forces to throw out the entire vote in Luzerne county because the official ballots were perforated the official records of the commonwealth will show Gifford Pinchot as the Republican nominee for governor.

Contrary to popular belief, the election bureau does not issue so-called "certificates of election" to the successful candidates at a primary. All general election printing material is prepared on the basis of the candidate who received the highest total vote for any office.

The bureau official figures for other offices included:
Senator: Republican, Davis, 733,108; Grundy, 493,191; Bohlen, 249,408; Drew, 28,844; scattering, 50.
Democratic: Kistler, 123,654; scattering, 3,177.

Lieutenant governor: Republican, Shannon, 602,339; Armstrong, 415,759; Dorrance, 294,825; Thompson, 62,588; scattering, 16.
Democratic: Bard, 120,364; scattering, 1,722.

Secretary of internal affairs: Republican, Dewey, 643,937; Woodward, 435,346; McClain, 113,783; Godcharles, 90,531; White, 70,468; scattering, 23.
Democratic: Winston, 117,882; scattering, 596.

Supreme court: Republican, Maxey, 925,017; MacDade, 315,193; scattering, 46.
Democratic: Niles, 121,911; scattering, 427.

Superior court: Republican, Linn, 781,727; Drew, 754,925; Graff, 514,097; scattering, 49.
Democratic: Reiber, 110,621; Douglas, 102,434; scattering, 1,167.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS OF DARKNESS

The sights of present day Chicago and a modern world now hold much for J. F. Fish who has been carrying on his duties as head of a business college though living in darkness for the past 30 years. In 1900 he suffered paralysis of the optic nerves when struck by a falling tree. A few days ago he suddenly regained his sight while sitting in his home. Fish is shown here viewing a new Chicago with his secretary, Cecelia Wegman.

SOUND ADVICE!

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

Bemoderate—bemoderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED."
Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*"I have come to the conclusion," writes Sir Henry Thompson, M. D., F. R. S., "that more than half the disease that embitters human life is due to avoidable errors in diet." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

nine British provinces, one of which is to be left outside the present government scheme; there are 562 semi-independent states, ruled by native princes." The YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR holds that "if India were torn to pieces, she would soon be torn to pieces by fanatical warfare. Besides, public opinion in India is so divided," continues the Vindicator, "that there can be no national consciousness to give hope of building up a strong government such as the Empire, long accustomed to self government, would have. Progress has been made in the last decade, however."

"No promises are made save one that Britain has pledged ultimately to realize a responsible government in India and will do so regardless of obstacles," states the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, while the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER thinks "the whole program may be the safest that could be proposed at present for India, much as Americans would like to see the Indian people exercising larger self-government." Its conclusion being that it "will be entirely unacceptable to the Nationalists, and will hardly arouse the enthusiasm even of the moderate Moslem element in India."

"Blend of the American and British systems of government" is seen by the NEWARK EVENING NEWS in the proposals, though, "for the moment, inclusion of the native states is likely to be more academic than real." The News adds: "The report seems a fair and workable program, based upon facts not distorted by politics. But it will be attacked by the Nationalists and Parliamentary par-isans as not liberal enough, by Tories as too generous."

Pointing out that the report "was completed before the beginning of the present crusade of Gandhi" and that it "does not take a stance against Indian nationalism," the NEW YORK SUN states: "It is the development of a national feeling and a willingness to progress slowly, if necessary, but wisely, to self government upon which the commission founds its recommendation for an all-India federation."

At a dinner in London recently Mme. Adeline Genee, a ballerina of Edwardian days and president of the Association of Operatic Dancing of Great Britain told of a friend who "nearly 100 years young and still keenly interested in dancing. On one occasion," she said, "my friend heard a waltz played on a phonograph and invited her daughter, who is 75 to dance it with her. The daughter had to give up, though the mother was anxious to carry on."

Gangster Slaying At Camden, N. J.

Rival Gangsters Emulate Program Of Chicago Early Today

CAMDEN, N. J., July 1.—The staccato road of a machine gun shattered the early morning stillness here today and the bullet-riddled body of Rocco (Sneezy) Matteo, 25, slumped over the wheel of his automobile. He was slain by rival gangsters of rum racketeers, police said.
Matteo, according to ten witnesses of the killing, had driven up to the front of his home and was about to alight when another car came to a skidding halt beside his car, the nose of a machine gun was trained on him and a hail of bullets was poured into him. The quartet in the other car did not stop to see what effect their volley had taken. They sped away into the darkness.

AGAIN KONJOLA SHOWS HOW IT "MAKES GOOD"

Pittsburgh Resident Relates How New Medicine Proved To Be Exactly What He Needed.

MR. MARK P. LOVETT
What mightier recommendation can a medicine have than the grateful, sincere and enthusiastic endorsement and praise of those who know what Konjola has done and can do? Give thought to the words of Mr. Mark P. Lovett, 40 East Roseridge Avenue, Bellevue, Pittsburgh, who says:
"I was generally run down in health; weak, tired and worn out each morning. Gas and bloating followed meals, and I had headaches and dizzy spells. I spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief. I paid as high as fifty dollars for examinations. Then Konjola was recommended. Konjola surely made good. Every morning I am refreshed, ready for the day's work. Gas and bloating have disappeared; my food digests properly; bowels are in fine condition and headaches are less frequent. It is worth a lot to get such relief, and I cheerfully endorse Konjola, the medicine that gave it to me."
Konjola cleanses and stimulates the ailing organs and rids the system of poisons. Then, and only then, is there room for health.
Konjola is sold by Love & McGowan, the druggists, 204 E. Washington St., this city.

Peter's Adventures

A PERFECT STICK
"HO, HUM! I wonder what time it is," remarked Brown Beetle, squinting up at the sun. "I promised to meet Mrs. Brown Beetle early in the forenoon and go househunting. She'll think something has happened to me and when she finds nothing has—well, I haven't got my word—my word I catch it!" Brown Beetle winked at Peter. "Guess I better be getting along. A nuisance, moving, but a green frog recently has settled down in our neighborhood, settled much too close to our front door for comfort. By the way, I wonder where wife is? Here comes Mr. Measurer. Maybe he can tell me."
"Who in the world is Mr. Measurer?" asked Peter, peering about, but seeing no one, although he did notice a stick floating near them in the water. "Where is the fellow?" Brown Beetle, however, paid no attention to Peter's question, but addressed an invisible somebody.
"Good afternoon, Water Measurer. How are you today? And have you seen anything of my good wife? If you have, tell me, is she far away?"
"Hello, Brown Beetle," squeaked a faint voice, that seemed to come from far off. "Pardon me for not seeing you, but you know business comes before pleasure with me and I am so interested in measuring off this pool that I am most absent-minded. Friends are always scolding me for passing them by without greeting. I don't mean to be rude. It's just that I keep my eyes on my work. Dear me, how annoying. I have measured this shore line five times this morning and every time the leg's lengths are different."

Rat Dog Thirteen Days In Tunnel

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 1.—Nothing daunted by 13 days' entombment in a rat tunnel two and a half feet underground, Pete, a terrier owned by James L. Docherty, today was snuffing about for new rat holes to conquer.
Pete's enthusiasm for the rat chase led him 20 feet along a narrow tunnel starting in the cellar of his master's home, there he became wedged in, unable to advance or retreat.
Thirteen days after he first sighted his quarry, Pete was dug out by Docherty who had given the dog up for lost until he heard a faint bark which seemed to come from a rat hole in the cellar. A hot milk diet quickly restored Pete's enthusiasm for hunting.

Fur Dealers To Have Arbitration Court

LEIPZIG, July 1.—America is well represented at the first International Fur Congress which opened here recently with delegates from thirty fur producing countries throughout the world. The Congress was called to order by Dr. Curtius, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Germany. Although the fur trade is the oldest in the world it has never before held a congress to organize its interests. Since the United States is the largest fur producing and consuming country, it is expected to play an important part. The meetings are being held during the International Fur and Hunting Exposition which will be open at Leipzig during the summer.
The first Fur Congress will discuss twenty questions of pressing interest to the trade. An international court of arbitration is to be formed to act as a court of appeal for questions arising in the widely scattered countries in which furs are gathered. It is planned further to set up an international credit bureau to supply information to the trade and facilitate business. The Congress will pass upon rules governing humane methods of trapping fur bearing animals throughout the world.

Lowman Denies Campbell's Blast

Says If Anything Wrong In Enforcement District
Campbell To Blame

POLITICIANS TAKE SIDES IN AFFAIR

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—The blast of Maj. Maurice Campbell, retiring prohibition administrator in New York, against the dry law and the alleged interference of New York and Washington Republican politicians in enforcement matters roused both wet and dry at the Capitol today.

Leading wets said Campbell's statement is just "added evidence that prohibition cannot be enforced and that graft and political corruption travel in its wake."

New York Republicans and drys for the most part, refused public comment though deploring the situation. They also pointed out that Campbell retired under fire.

Campbell was pronounced a "sane man" for his statement denying the enforceability of the dry laws today by Senator Copeland (D) of New York.

"His statement of today is evidence of his sanity," said Copeland. "He realizes that you can't enforce an unenforceable law."

Copeland said he did not expect any improvement with a change of administrators, not because of the "personalities" involved at all but because of the very nature of the job entrusted to any and all of New York's prohibition administrators.

Officials at the treasury department declined to give official recognition to the charges Campbell made in his public statement issued upon his retirement from the service.

It was evident they held that as they no longer have the task of enforcing the dry law, and that Campbell no longer is with the service, a controversy should be avoided.

Attorney General Mitchell, just on his first day as chief of prohibition enforcement, would say nothing as his department has had nothing to do with the prohibition unit up until today.

Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, did say Campbell was given practically entire charge of his district, was not interfered with and if things were wrong only Campbell is to blame.

Lowman branded as ridiculous Campbell's allegation that Republican politicians and treasury officials have directed pressure upon him to "restate certain dry laws."

The other day Bobby Jones threatened to break his putter, and probably some of the other players rather wished he had.—The Toronto Daily Star.

Says U. S. Life Will Destroy Family Love

PARIS, July 1.—The American life, says the French, is turning a killing not only the family, but all family sentiment. It is tending to develop in every individual a kind of forced individualism, each one becoming his own master when his force permits it, each one struggling in his own manner to win his own freedom and independence, each one being responsible to himself alone.

Such is the complaint, made by the French writer, Lucien Romier, in his latest book, "Promotion de la Femme," in which he also decries the gradual rise of woman.

"The rich American, even when married and father of a family," says Romier, "feels himself free to dispose of his fortune at his own convenience, even without reserving a legitimate share for his wife and his children. In revenue, the child, however great his respect and love for his parents, does not feel obliged to support them in old age."

Each man for himself—this is the rule. I feel a most respectable family in New York, living in a most pleasant home. Every Saturday morning the man of the house left for his country golf club; the mother went off to her own club; the son to his yachting society and the daughter to her tennis club. They were all absent until Monday morning.

"During the week, one of them went to the movies, another to the swimming pool, another for a drive in his car and the father to lectures about salmon-fishing."

"During the long holidays, the father was in Canada, the mother in Scotland, the daughter in Germany and the son in Florida."

Monsieur Romier recognizes that the modern woman of today, better educated, cherishes fewer illusions in regard to men and is becoming more and more demanding in her choice of a husband and less resigned to the fever which she finds.

"The 'Promotion of Woman' is a troublesome phenomenon, by a means a passing event. He believes one must accept the fact, all the while seeking to convert its advantages and doing away with the inconveniences of such a state."

"Modern woman," concludes M. Romier, "has her eye open to men, thus rendered the marriage career far more difficult. Man must better himself in order to please her. Thus the 'promotion of woman' ought to elevate man as well as woman. The future, as always, depends upon her."

Resume Testimony In Suit To Check Rockefeller Merger

Standard Oil Of New York And Vacuum Oil Company Seek To Merge

NEW YORK, July 1.—Taking of testimony was resumed today in the action brought by the United States Government to restrain two prominent Rockefeller companies—the Standard Oil Company of New York, popularly known as Socony, and the Vacuum Oil Company—from merging. Economic reasons were advanced by the defendants as the main reason for the proposed amalgamation. The government, however, contends that consolidation of the two companies would constitute violation of the dissolution decree of the supreme court in 1911 by which the old Standard Oil Trust was dismantled.

Competitive conditions have so changed in the petroleum industry, the defendants assert, that there is today substantial economic reasons for the proposed consolidation of the two companies, both of which were set apart by this decree.

The hearing is before special master Fred L. Williams, who was appointed by the United States Court for the Eastern District of Missouri. Taking of testimony will require several weeks, but must be completed by September 10, inasmuch as arguments in the case will be held before a statutory court for the Eastern District of Missouri.

C. M. Dredger, statistician of the Standard Oil Company of New York was the only witness on the stand yesterday—the first day of the hearing. He produced figures and maps showing the world-wide distribution and production of petroleum products by his company and the Vacuum Oil Company in relation to the distribution and production of other American companies.

Invents 'Electric Eye'

Contrivance Of Immigrant Engineer May Rival Some Of Edison's Inventions With Its Numerous Uses

By Central Press
PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 1.—An immigrant boy who came from Austria 10 years ago and settled in this city has invented an "electric eye," a contrivance that may rank alongside some of the inventions of Thomas A. Edison.

Among the things claimed for the electric eye, according to its inventor, is its ability to detect and extinguish a fire, the counting of people, the automatic sorting of materials according to color, and the guarding against explosions in gas furnaces.

Those are a few of the uses to which the invention of the one-time immigrant boy can be put, he claims. Research Engineer J. V. Breisky, a research engineer, is the inventor.

Breisky has conservatively estimated that his invention will save enough steel annually to build 29 skyscrapers 60 stories high.

For years steel manufacturers have sought for a perfect temperature regulator for steel furnaces. Losses have occurred because no efficient mechanical temperature regulator was to be had. Now the electric eye blanks, showing the value which has been placed on his property. Assessors will begin work on the triennial assessment about September 1. In some of the more populous wards of the city it is probable that assessors will get an earlier start in order that the work may be completed by the first of next year. Tax levies for the three succeeding years are based on the values placed on property at the triennial assessment.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Show Effect Of Religion In Behavior

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

A good many million children every Sunday morning are in Sunday school. Most go willingly, some go eagerly, while others go rebelliously. There are relatively few objectors among children under seven or eight; more among older children, and many adolescents openly refuse to go, regardless of their parents' wishes and attempts to make them.

If religion does what we assume it does, we parents need it more, no doubt, than our children do. After all, the child who merely goes to Sunday school regardless of how effective it may be, whose parents have no spiritual warmth and sympathy in relation to their children, who, if they go to church and Sunday school themselves, do not reflect good influences of religion in their behavior in the home, cannot be expected to obtain much lasting good. Parents who send their children off to Sunday school staying home themselves, betray a narrow egotism and self-righteousness which is pretty surely harmful to their children.

Let us quit sending our children to Sunday school. Let's go with them. Then they will go more readily and obtain more by going. Anyway, there is no finer thing to do than for the family to go off toward the church on Sunday morning, together, as a family unit.

Many of us regret that the average Sunday school is not more attractive to the child, that it does not have more good teachers who make the lesson interesting and lead the child to apply it to everyday conduct. The average Sunday school is about a century behind the average day school. We often wish the child did not have to be annoyed by so many morbid worries and concern about abstract theology, that he did not have to listen to long, boring prayers unmeaningful to him.

The Sunday school will be better when we parents help to make it so. After all, the most important people in the Sunday school are not the children, but their parents. In the future parents who really care about their children's moral and religious education, will sit in Sunday school, studying themselves, becoming acquainted with their own human frailties, learning how to reduce them so as to annoy their children less and grow more lovable to them.

In the future every up-and-coming Sunday school will have groups of parents in classes, studying their children and themselves in right relations to them. The leaders of these groups will be psychologists who have religious sympathies and interests, and who can see the application of psychology to the every-day problems of the parent.

Mental Clinic On Wednesday

State Bureau Of Mental Health Will Conduct Regular Monthly Clinic

State mental clinic will be conducted on Wednesday at the office of the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society, on East street. Miss Hackbush of Harrisburg, will be in charge, assisted by county nurses.

This clinic is held once every month. One of the important purposes is to find what children are defective and to determine what should be done in each case, for the benefit of the afflicted child and the community.

Tests for mentality are given each child brought to the clinic, and in that way, teachers and parents can determine just how the mentality of the child is, as compared to the age.

The feeble-minded child, like the normal child, is entitled to an education up to the limit of his ability. A purpose of this regular monthly clinic is to determine what is the limit of the child's ability, and to give advice as to treatment for the child.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

When a girl gives a man the gate, why doesn't she tell him why she does it?

This question I can answer with another one. What difference does it make? Holding a post mortem over a dead love is the last word in misery for all concerned. And what's more there is nothing to be done about it, so it is a waste of time, effort and heart ache.

I am always getting letters from both men and women who ask why they aren't notified of the details when love cools.

Well, the fact that you don't know it is cooling shows that there is a lack of sympathy between you. It's better to break off before marriage. It would have come anyway, and would have hurt more after the wedding.

A woman is ever so much more likely to explain she is through. There is absolutely nothing that a man dreads half so much. So he stays away and says nothing.

And men telling me they get such "rotten deals!" A girl lets a man court her and then decides she doesn't like him and quits. It's all in the game. You have to court a girl to find out how well you like each other, and if you aren't both in love you don't want marriage. What's so rotten about that?

What if you don't get the one you want? It's quite a common complaint. Suppose you love her and she doesn't love back? Is that her fault? She's not the one for you. Look for another.

Love has an arbitrary way of wanting what it can't get. But if you have tried to stir the interest of someone and failed, why should you feel that you have had a great loss? You merely thought you picked the one for you, but you didn't. Life is made up of such mistakes. If everybody who was disappointed in love became morrow, discontented and miserable what a world this would be!

One man writes telling me all the things he gave the girl who jilted him. He wouldn't want a girl who wanted him merely for what he could give her, yet he lists the presents as if they should have completed the purchase. Queer reasoning that!

There is only one thing to do when the gate is opened to you, and that is to go out and close it after you—quietly.

Local Man Is Author Of Guard Magazine Item

Merle T. Burrows Contributes Article On High School Boy In National Guard

GIVEN PROMINENT PLACE IN MONTHLY

Author Is Member Of Troop And An Overseas Veteran Of The World War

Included among the interesting features of the July issue of The Pennsylvania Guardsman, the magazine which is published monthly on the interests of the Pennsylvania National Guard is a fine article by Corp. Merle T. Burrows of Troop F, 103rd Cavalry of New Castle.

Mr. Burrows who is a veteran of the World War, with overseas service, is a teacher in the New Castle High School. In his capacity as a teacher and a member of the troop, he analyzes the advantage which accrue to the high school boy as a member of the troop.

The article which has created widespread interest, follows:

When the average high school boy mentions a desire to join a local National Guard unit he frequently meets with strong opposition from parents, relatives and friends who are themselves afraid of an enlistment. To the end that enlistment may be secured in the high schools, the following "selling points" are offered to officers desirous of securing high school boys for their organization.

Most red-blooded boys who study United States history in our high schools are fired with patriotic enthusiasm when they read of the deeds of honor and glory of the American soldier in all our wars. This has frequently been termed "war psychology" by the pacifists who prefer peace at any price but the intelligent young American is usually more interested in action than in self-sister politics and he can be depended upon to form judgments for himself. Thus successful advertising the C. M. T. C. is now regarded highly by the parents of high school boys and the same results could be secured by properly advertising the merits of the National Guard.

The high school that offers military training is the exception rather than the rule and parents who desire to have their boys enjoy the benefits to be derived from such training usually have to send the boy to a private military school. Since high school training is expensive in such schools it is only the wealthy parent who can afford to send his boy to a military school and, upon graduation from the private secondary school, to college. The C. M. T. C. is now closed to high school boys in many localities and a waiting list is held in reserve. This means that military training is desired and the field is open for National Guard units in every locality and a waiting list can be established from this source.

Athletics are stressed in almost every high school. But all students can not participate in high school athletics because only the best are retained by the coaches.

FIRST ADD LOCAL MAN IS

This may be unfair to the tax payer but there seems to be no solution to the problem especially in a small school where there is not sufficient equipment for class athletics. Here the Army offers a solution. Almost every unit has athletic equipment and a drill floor is a splendid basketball floor. High school boys are always interested in athletics and the unit that supports athletics gets immediate favorable attention from high school boys, when this fact is known to them.

The average person is not aware of the fact that a high school boy can earn at least a part of his clothing by drill attendance in a National Guard unit. The extra spending money for such a small part of time is an excellent talking point for the recruiting officer. Where units are located in college towns the drill checks are a real incentive to the college students who are helping to pay their own way through college. A private earns one dollar for one and one-half hours at drill every week. Few students can get any work of any kind and secure such high pay as even a private gets and there is usually a chance for rapid advancement for one who will work toward that end. This is an exceptionally strong selling point in dealing with students whose chances for earning real cash are at best limited. A recruiting officer might be well repaid for listing the possible pay for that enlisted man receive throughout the year in some such form as the following:

Payments received by a Private:
For 48 Army Drills $48.00
Federal Camp Pay 15.00
State Pay 7.50

Total for year $70.50
Corresponding advances for Specialists of the various classes, Privates 1st Class, Non-Commissioned Officers etc.

Most high school boys are interested in firing the small arms and the indoor and out-door ranges will always interest such boys. An enthusiastic audience of such boys can all arms are properly displayed and demonstrated to the group. They are interested in the mechanism of the pieces and they are delighted if they are given an opportunity to fire one. The qualification badges are interesting to such boys too, and the officers or non-com should explain how such badges may be earned.

When the unit is a mounted one, "the sport of kings" should be an excellent way of "selling" the organization to the boys. Horse back riding is at present very expensive if the horse is hired. This is free to members of a mounted unit and boys are interested in horsemanship and sabre qualifications.

Parental objection to the high school boy's enlistment is usually on account of either prejudice or ignorance of the work of the National Guard. Both of these may be eliminated by tactful explanations of the ideals and traditions of the National Guard. The Guard is not a strike breaking organization; it is only used to uphold law and order and protect property as guaranteed by the Constitution. It always maintains a strict neutrality in labor disputes and is not a "tool of capital" as is sometimes charged. This could be explained tactfully by saying that we are all more or less capitalists. Any one who owns as much as one share of a corporation's stock or a bond is a capitalist and dividends and interest could not be paid if law and order is not upheld. With the great number of corporations allowing their employees to purchase stock on the installment plan, the laborer is now actually a capitalist.

The National Guard offers the high school boy an opportunity to develop initiative, resourcefulness, and character and that parent would object to such training? Competition is keen in every activity today and these qualities are essential to success in any field of endeavor. A boy learns to think and act quickly, to arrive at logical conclusions from a set of given facts, and his mind and body coordinate in meeting new situations better because of military training. Certainly these qualities are desired by all parents for their boys.

Some parents object to their boys receiving military training because it is claimed by some that such training makes a boy think in terms of blood and war. Nothing could be farther from the truth than a statement of this kind and it can be quite easily proved that this is not a logical conclusion.

Does a course of training in first aid make the student think in terms of accidents and death? Does a course in swimming turn the student into a fish? Neither does military training make a boy desire war, but all such training has its place and may sometime save that same boy's life.

Citizenship training, useful in civilian life, is taught the boys at camp by competent officers. Lectures are given on how to care for the body, respect for law and order, the duty of civilians and soldiers to Old Glory, and many kindred subjects. Many fathers shrink from their duty of telling their sons sexual facts. In the National Guard camps medical officers who are qualified to give this information lecture on the functions of the organs of the body and point out the pitfalls that boys frequently fall into. At camp the social life such as sociologists speak of, the ability to live congenially with others, is developed. Here the boy lives in a squad with seven other boys and such a mode of life is highly desirable for many boys occasionally. An only son is often pampered until he thinks that his wants are foremost and everyone else is more or less subsidiary to himself. In the squad tent this same boy learns to respect the rights of others, if, on the other hand, he waits until he is through school before learning that others have rights too he may have a sad awakening. Dr. Hess, an economist and an author, draws a picture of lawlessness in the United States and in countries where there is compulsory military training and asks if there could be any relation between the fact that laws are more highly regarded in countries where there is compulsory military training than in America. Military training does make an individual think of the rights of others and it creates a respect for authority that is beneficial to anyone. Since laws are based upon the theory "the greatest good to the greatest number," military training can be classed as a highly desirable social asset because it causes respect for law which is certainly needed in America.

Colonel C. Blain E. Smathers, a veteran of two wars, an educator of wide experience, and the commanding officer of the 112th Infantry, states that "it is an honor and a privilege to be a member of the National Guard." Summing up the many advantages to be derived from membership in the Guard it would seem that the colonel is quite right. If more educators had some of the colonel's experience they might possibly be better qualified to train their students for civilian life and at the same time have a more sympathetic understanding of high school boys. We should feel proud that we have educators such as Col. Smathers. May the good work that he has done and is doing for the National Guard and for America live always.

Most high school boys are interested in firing the small arms and the indoor and out-door ranges will always interest such boys. An enthusiastic audience of such boys can all arms are properly displayed and demonstrated to the group. They are interested in the mechanism of the pieces and they are delighted if they are given an opportunity to fire one. The qualification badges are interesting to such boys too, and the officers or non-com should explain how such badges may be earned.

When the unit is a mounted one, "the sport of kings" should be an excellent way of "selling" the organization to the boys. Horse back riding is at present very expensive if the horse is hired. This is free to members of a mounted unit and boys are interested in horsemanship and sabre qualifications.

Parental objection to the high school boy's enlistment is usually on account of either prejudice or ignorance of the work of the National Guard. Both of these may be eliminated by tactful explanations of the ideals and traditions of the National Guard. The Guard is not a strike breaking organization; it is only used to uphold law and order and protect property as guaranteed by the Constitution. It always maintains a strict neutrality in labor disputes and is not a "tool of capital" as is sometimes charged. This could be explained tactfully by saying that we are all more or less capitalists. Any one who owns as much as one share of a corporation's stock or a bond is a capitalist and dividends and interest could not be paid if law and order is not upheld. With the great number of corporations allowing their employees to purchase stock on the installment plan, the laborer is now actually a capitalist.

The National Guard offers the high school boy an opportunity to develop initiative, resourcefulness, and character and that parent would object to such training? Competition is keen in every activity today and these qualities are essential to success in any field of endeavor. A boy learns to think and act quickly, to arrive at logical conclusions from a set of given facts, and his mind and body coordinate in meeting new situations better because of military training. Certainly these qualities are desired by all parents for their boys.

Some parents object to their boys receiving military training because it is claimed by some that such training makes a boy think in terms of blood and war. Nothing could be farther from the truth than a statement of this kind and it can be quite easily proved that this is not a logical conclusion.

Does a course of training in first aid make the student think in terms of accidents and death? Does a course in swimming turn the student into a fish? Neither does military training make a boy desire war, but all such training has its place and may sometime save that same boy's life.

Citizenship training, useful in civilian life, is taught the boys at camp by competent officers. Lectures are given on how to care for the body, respect for law and order, the duty of civilians and soldiers to Old Glory, and many kindred subjects. Many fathers shrink from their duty of telling their sons sexual facts. In the National Guard camps medical officers who are qualified to give this information lecture on the functions of the organs of the body and point out the pitfalls that boys frequently fall into. At camp the social life such as sociologists speak of, the ability to live congenially with others, is developed. Here the boy lives in a squad with seven other boys and such a mode of life is highly desirable for many boys occasionally. An only son is often pampered until he thinks that his wants are foremost and everyone else is more or less subsidiary to himself. In the squad tent this same boy learns to respect the rights of others, if, on the other hand, he

During the gala receptions and affairs arranged to give the Quaker City citizens a chance to acclaim the courtly Southerner, Byrd will be given a chance to recount some of the adventures that befell him and his hardy crew while on their recent two years' sojourn in the Antarctic regions.

The intrepid air ace will arrive here at noon and at 12:00 p. m. he will be tendered a luncheon in the Poor Richard clubhouse. He will be asked to make a brief talk at the luncheon. After the Poor Richard affair the visiting explorers will motor to Logan Circle on the Parkway where at 2:15 p. m. they will head a military and naval parade to the historic shrine of Independence Hall. At 3 p. m. Admiral Byrd again will speak addressing the assembled crowds in Independence Square. At 7 p. m. he will attend a dinner at the Penn A. C. and depart at 11 p. m. for New York City.

Berni Balchen, Harold G. G. McKinley, the three other daring members of the exploring expedition who flew over the South Pole with him, and Boy Scout Paul Siple, of Erie, are the men accompanying the famous explorer. This quartet also will be honored with Siple scheduled to receive the plaudits of his fellow scouts of the city and nearby districts. In anticipation of the famous aviator and explorer's arrival this morning flags were unfurled everywhere. Bunting and other decorations waved gaily from the stands of Independence Square and City Hall and all along the line of parade from Logan Circle to the famous Shrine of Liberty special decorations added their gaiety to the gala affair.

Prayer In Congress

The Senate met at 11 o'clock a. m. Rev. James J. Morris, D. D., assistant rector, Church of the Epiphany, city of Washington, offered the following prayer:

Almighty, ever-lasting God, blessed and only Potentate, King of kings and Lord of lords, to whom all things in heaven and on earth do bow, we praise Thy great name for the abundant blessings, temporal and spiritual, that Thou hast graciously vouchsafed to this people and Nation. And we beseech Thee, of Thy goodness, so to direct and dispose the minds and hearts of all in authority over us that by their enactment of righteous laws and by their true and impartial administration of the same, wickedness and vice may be swiftly punished and virtue and true religion fully maintained. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

FORCES OUTSIDE OURSELVES
Anyone who thinks of the universe and the natural laws which govern it feels something of the great power which has created the world and which operates it. But do we think often enough of the amazing fact that this same power which created the universe and which runs it is the same power that a human life can use if it is properly adjusted to the world?

Speaking to graduates of Ohio State university, President Soper, of Ohio Wesleyan said: "Every man who has caught the vision of a new world and throws himself into its attainment is consciously or unconsciously believing in and working with the forces outside himself which are making for the same ends."

RADIO HEAT

With no furnaces and no radiators—and with no coal bill—life might be just one pleasant summer afternoon. Perhaps the radio programs may come to have something to do with the heat.

PRISON GRADUATES

With gray suits for gowns and skull caps for mortar boards a class of California convicts has been graduated from a vocational school. An experiment in education is being tried at San Quentin penitentiary. Convicts, when their terms are up, will have learned jobs. Perhaps most men keep on going to the bad after they leave prison not because they want to be criminals but because they find few jobs they can hold. Like men who never went to prison they need education and the knowledge of a trade. Prisons come so far from reform that every experiment that may build bad men into good is worth watching.

LETTING THE PEOPLE KNOW

Montana insurance men are thoughtful. They have decided on a campaign of advertising to convince people of the value of insurance. Wisely, they pick newspapers as their medium. Much that passes for hard times might pass away if more people were told what they need and where to get it. Most of us have to be told many times what is good for us before we accept the idea. Advertisers will do well to understand the resistance of human nature.

Fate Of Commission On Law Enforcement Is Up To Congress

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Congress today was embroiled in a renewal of the prohibition warfare which has been waged intermittently during the long session with President Hoover's law enforcement program as the issue.

Spurred on by demands of Mr. Hoover administration leaders were planning a final drive for a continuation of the Wickersham law enforcement commission and enactment of the re-empowerment of his program to tighten up dry law enforcement.

Both houses were involved in the controversy, with the final outcome in doubt as pressure for adjournment increased as the thermometer mounted to midsummer level.

The Wickersham commission—created last year by congress at the behest of the president—had legally gone out of existence today as the fiscal year 1930 closed last midnight. The appropriation made for the commission had expired.

An effort will be made to revive the commission and give it $250,000 for another year's work just as soon as senate-house conferees on the second deficiency bill complete their work on the main features of the bill.

The senate item of $50,000 for the commission, with instructions to study prohibition only, was to be brought before the house for a vote. It is expected that the amount will be raised to $250,000.

Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, however, served notice he would attempt to strike it out in the senate on technical grounds or make a fight for the original senate proposal.

President Hoover has already pledged $100,000 to continue the commission, but this fund is not expected to be called upon until congress finally determines the status of the commission.

In the house administration leaders were working steadily for enactment of the unified border patrol bill, one of the original "big four" planks in the president's enforcement program.

Extreme senate drags were hopeful of forcing the so-called "juryless trial" bills out of the judiciary committee, but had little hope of obtaining passage.

The first phase of the president's enforcement program—transfer of the enforcement unit from the treasury to justice department—is law and became effective today. Congress also passed his prison expansion program.

The border patrol bill, which combines various Canadian and Mexican border agencies into one camp and adds 1,000 men to the anti-smuggling force, was slated to pass the house despite stiff opposition led by Rep. O'Connor (D) of New York.

Sports Start At Camp East Brook

Fifty-Two In All At Camp;
Hikes, Swims, Games
Have Commenced

Sports are in full swing at Camp East Brook. Forty-three girls arrived yesterday, in morning and afternoon, and the first camp period received a flying start.

Little time was lost between the arrival of the campers and the beginning of activities. A native hike was enjoyed Monday forenoon, during which time the hills around Camp East Brook were explored. The camp is in a splendid location. From the distance—scores of miles away. Below the camp flows the pretty Neshannock. To the left is a winding road, and trees. To the right, more trees. An ideal country for hikes.

Monday afternoon, the girls donned their bathing suits and went swimming. In that way, they put one over on Old Man Weather, who was encouraging the mercury to hit the top.

In the evening, Miss Eloise Ewing, program director, conducted a meeting for the purpose of rounding off the schedule and getting the campers' own ideas as how the twelve day period could be spent most enjoyably, and beneficially. This meeting took place in the cozy cottage. Songs were sung—Miss Marjorie Canning was in charge.

This morning, groups for swimming, handcraft, lawn ball, etc., were organized and the girls of each group chose what representative from council they wished to conduct their group.

Besides the 43 girls, there are 6 counselors and 3 employees, all of whom are under the supervision of Miss Dorothy Stewart, Y. W. C. A. health director.

60,000 Eggs Produced At State Game Farms

The above picture shows a Ring-necked pheasant being released by a Game Protector. The bird is a worthy example of the type of birds that will be released in Lawrence County, from the Jordan State Game Farm, located near Harlansburg.

About 60,000 ring-necked pheasant eggs have been produced at the two state game farms, so far this year. The majority of the eggs have been produced at the Jordan State Game Farm, in Lawrence county, one mile from Harlansburg. Many were also produced at the Fisher Farm, in Montgomery county.

At the Jordan Farm there are now over 5,000 young birds in the rearing field, according to a report from the office of the Board of Game Commissioners, Harrisburg, and this farm expects to raise in the neighborhood of 7,000 birds.

At the present time there are about 3,000 young birds at the Fisher Farm with an expectation of a total of 5,000.

Refuge keepers have already been furnished about 15,000 eggs, many of which have already been hatched. Some refuge keepers have reported an almost 100 per cent hatch. Much has been accomplished in the operation of the game farms since their establishment last summer and the results have been very satisfactory.

Steadily, improvement and additions are being made at the Jordan Farm. Twenty five new pens have recently been erected, acres of ground have been added, an artificial lake has been constructed, new buildings erected, and scores of other changes have been made since the game farm was instituted.

Results at the Turkey Farm in Juniata County have also been very good. There are now over 500 young birds at the farm, all coming along in fine shape.

Game Protectors have been furnished approximately 2,500 eggs and over 29,000 eggs have been given to sportsmen.

The South made its big mistake by succeeding instead of standing pat and daring Washington to enforce the law.

To Hear Argument On New Railroad Line Across State

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—The interstate commerce commission announced today it would hear oral argument on July 15 on the application of the New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago railroad for authority to build a line across Pennsylvania from Easton to Allegheny City, a distance of 284 miles. A decision probably will not be reached before fall.

This project, sponsored by L. P. Loree, has been before the commission for several years. It has been vigorously fought by a group of eastern railroads, who claim its cost would be excessive and would divert traffic from existing lines that are capable of handling all the traffic that could be developed.

Banks and watch manufacturers of Switzerland have united in organizing a credit underwriting organization for the timepiece industry.

Camp Rentz Is Formally Opened

Seventy Boys Leave Y. M. C. A. This Morning For Two Weeks' Outing

WILL FINISH NEW LODGE BY FRIDAY

With an estimated enrollment of 70 boys, Camp Fred L. Rentz, of the New Castle Y. M. C. A., situated along the picturesque Slippery Rock creek 11 miles northeast of the city, formally opened for the summer this morning. The boys who arrived today will remain in camp two weeks.

Directors of the camp have been at the grounds for the past week or more, completing arrangements for the coming of the boys. They were on hand to welcome and to assign the boys to their respective tents today.

Construction on the new dining and library lodge, the gift of Mrs. Fred L. Rentz, is progressing at a rapid rate and will be ready for complete occupancy by Friday of this week. Until that time only a portion of it will be used for dining purposes.

William A. Thomas, boys' work secretary is director of the camp this year with Henry T. MacNichols, physical director supervising athletics. Assisting Thomas will be Merle Hart, while Edgar Beal will aid MacNichols in the sports programs.

Notable improvements in addition to the dining lodge have been made this year, while others will be completed this week. The grounds were inspected Monday by Philo C. Dix, state secretary for the Y. M. C. A. in Pennsylvania. Mr. Dix was most favorably impressed at the changes that have been brought about.

Campers for the first period will remain until July 15, and on the following day another period will begin. After two more weeks of regular camping, the grounds will be occupied by the Girl Scouts for one week.

Underprivileged boys of the city, whose expenses are being underwritten by local groups will be entertained at the camp for a week after the Girl Scout period.

Special preparations for the entertainment of parents and other visitors at camp on Friday of this week, the Fourth, are being made. It is expected many of the parents will take their dinner to the camp.

Death Recalls Pure Food Battle

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Noted Pure Food Specialist, Aided By Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The long and turbulent campaign of the city, whose expenses are being underwritten by local groups will be entertained at the camp for a week after the Girl Scout period.

Special preparations for the entertainment of parents and other visitors at camp on Friday of this week, the Fourth, are being made. It is expected many of the parents will take their dinner to the camp.

It was through Dr. Wiley's unceasing efforts that the pure food and drugs act was put through congress in 1906, after President Roosevelt had become his active ally and wielded the "big stick" to obtain the legislation.

Dr. Wiley began a life-long crusade against adulterated food and drugs in 1883, when he became chief chemist of the department of agriculture. He led the fight which resulted in enactment of the pure food and drug laws and kept a watchful eye on their administration almost until the end.

Fought Bitter Battle.

It was a 30-year war into which Dr. Wiley led the agricultural department and he was a principal in many a bitter battle over pure foods and drugs. In 1912 a special board recommended that he be "permitted to resign". Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Attorney General Wickersham approved the report but President sustained Dr. Wiley and praised his work.

The indicated, the chemist resigned from the department of agriculture and turned to the more peaceful occupation of contributing editor to a national magazine, writing articles dealing with food problems for the home. He resigned this position last January because of failing health.

He was born in Kent, Ind. in 1844 and graduated from Harvard university in 1863. He became state chemist of Indiana in 1874 and entered the federal service nine years later.

Dr. Wiley did not marry until he was 67, his wife being the former Anna C. Kellon, a government worker. He leaves two children, Harvey W. and John Preston Wiley.

"No thanks," said the statesman. "I vote dry and therefore I must refuse a drink." So Diogenes blew out his lantern.

Why kick about the standardization of America. There's no other known method of producing thoroughbreds.

Auto Main Hazard On Fourth Says State Health Bureau Head

"Not so many years ago physicians and health officials were compelled to issue emphatic warnings on Fourth of July hazards. With the indiscriminate use of so-called toy cannons, toy pistols, giant crackers and other explosive devices, a real danger always existed. This was forcibly proved by the lamentable newspaper accounts that set forth the deaths and injuries which were the inevitable consequences of the celebration. Today, hazards also exist, but their nature has very materially changed," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health today.

"Fortunately, the general use of high-powered and high material has been quite curtailed by city ordinances. Connected areas are therefore somewhat relieved of this type of danger. On the other hand, the main traveled highways will be dotted with stands on the third and fourth of July for the purpose of selling, among other products, the type of goods prohibited by city and borough officials. Motorists will therefore purchase, and through careless handling, some will pay too big a price for their fun, which number will include many children.

"For that minority who will thus become the victims of over-enthusiasm, word of caution is being given. It is advised that they seek medical attention immediately and apparently slight may be the injury. Tetanus, otherwise called lockjaw, lurks in injuries of this character. Therefore, prompt treatment is essential.

"However, the main hazard lies not in powder but in the automobile. With a care-free spirit, many motorists attempt to celebrate the Fourth of July by using the roads as speedways and by inexcusably careless operation of their cars. Hence, as in former days, much space in the papers on the fifth is devoted to details of casualties that occurred on the day before.

"The essential factor of patriotism that sets the Fourth aside from all other days in the year, will not in the least be lost by using one's head as well as one's hands in the celebration. Safety first should occupy a prominent position in the plans and observance of America's natal day. Real patriotism demands no less."

Do you realize you can get a man to leap from a speeding aeroplane at dizzy altitude in his silk umbrella for the privilege of passing the hat among a few people. Maybe he gets the equivalent to a bag of 10 silver dollars perhaps more. But you say

Those Are Hard Earned Bags of Silver Dollars
Ours Are Easy Earned Bags of Silver Dollars

We all know there are hundreds of people willing to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel for a bag of silver dollars. Just the other day someone shot the rapids in an old boiler for a few silver dollars.

An Unusual Accident

THE truck, carrying a load of logs, stalled at a curve after dark, and the operator let it stand without placing any lights on it. All the logs were about 15 feet longer than the rear of the truck, but one of them car rounded the curve, failed to see the obstruction in time, and was killed when the log passed completely through the car. His two companions were injured. The National Safety Council believes all stalled trucks should be lighted if left on the highway at night. A light would very probably have prevented this accident.

This striking picture of the Southern Cross, Major Kingsford-Smith's trans-Atlantic plane, sailed over the towers of Manhattan after arrival at New York at the completion of the flight from Port Marnock, Ireland.

THESE CHAMPS WORRIED? NO, SIR!

Confidence and joy seems to exude from these two world ring champions as they arrive for battles on two different coasts. At left, Sammy Mandell, lightweight king, waves a hello on his arrival in New York for his July 17 battle with Al Singer. At right, Young Jack Thompson, colored holder of the welterweight crown, is just as happy on his arrival in San Francisco for his struggle July 4 at Fresno with Young Corbett III.

Bo-Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, July 1.—A young man of Manhattan shot his wife while she had her hair done up in curl papers, and as a result she was carried off to the hospital looking like a Hopkins.

A man who does a thing like that is no gentleman.

WELCOME CAL

Cal Coolidge has signed up with a metropolitan newspaper to contribute a daily article on anything that ticks his fancy, and the New York columnists are mildly speculating whether the predecessor on his advent into the ranks of the pressmen.

One of The Brethren wondered out loud the other day how long it will be before Mr. Coolidge starts writing pieces on "How Hard It Is to Keep Up Day After Day." And with self-reminder and apologetic, the single he adds: "All of us do it."

Don't listen to him, Cal. He's giving you a bum steer. All of us do not do it. A few of us regard it as an impertinence for a columnist to whine day after day about how hard a job it is for him to fill his allotted space. Readers aren't interested in that sort of tripe. If the exactions of a job are too great for your talent, quit it and give someone else a chance.

Anyone who takes money for a slipshod or careless job is picking The Boss's pocket. And there's nothing I ever heard of that absolves a columnist from this tenet.

ANOTHER MATTER

New York Volunteer Vigilantes committed an awful "fox pass" the other day when they spoiled the dress-suit decorum of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and the Central Park Casino by staging a raid during the dinner hour, pinching several of the servers and questioning of the guests. The Ritz waiters have been charged with "possession" while the management of the Casino merely is called upon to say it was a lie—that they were not sanctioning "set-ups" (the Volstead an item for ginger ale and cracked ice).

Naturally New York is annoyed at the thing. It's all right for the Vigilantes to get rough with a garish, second-string Broadway hotel, as they did a short time ago. Vigilantes must live. But it's a different matter when it comes to disturbing the stained-glass air of sanctity pervading such golf-leaf joints as The Ritz and The Casino.

If we've reached the place in this country where wealth is no longer an assurance of immunity, some of us would like to know it.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL

The Prohibition situation in New York is getting badly balled up. The old-time clarity of distinction that characterized "enforcement" is fast disappearing.

For example: A Federal judge recently remarked that he entered the dining room of a mid-town hotel with the idea of tying on the nose bag and was pained and shocked to see a diner at a nearby table—a fiend in human form—extract a flask from his starboard pistol pocket and proceed to pour liquor into a glass, with no interference from the corps of surround waiters and bus boys.

With the laws of evidence as they exist today, what some of us would like to know is how did Hizoner know it was likier that gurgled from the diner's flask? The mere fact that it flowed from the crifice of a flask is in itself no valid basis for the Judicial Owl's presumption.

And, going further, what right has this Federal judge thus to stigmatize an anonymous guest—to send him out into the world forever under the disdardly charge of having sat at a dinner table and wet his whistle?

Those who feel that The Unknown Drinker has sustained violence to his Constitutional prerogative at the hands of Hizoner will please signify in the usual method.

Those opposed?

The ayes have it (with a little ginger ale and cracked ice on the side).

BEARS CLUB

Bears Club of the South Side will hold an important business meeting in the Roumanian hall this evening. President Rocco Guido desires the presence of all members. The meeting starts at 7:30.

The chief trouble seems to be that gangsters won't confine themselves to the kind of law-breaking that meets with the approval of their public.

Luzerne County Vote Certified

Lull In Legal Battle Over Vote At Luzerne Primaries

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 1.—Today, the forty-first since the primary, the election returns of Luzerne county have been certified by the County Commissioners and sent to the secretary of the Commonwealth, at Harrisburg.

The long drawn out delay was occasioned by the efforts of attorneys representing Francis Shunk Brown to the discarded as illegal and vitiated, the ballots in all of the districts except those using voting machines, because the paper ballots were perforated.

As certified, the returns give Gifford Pinchot 42,975; Brown 15,316; Phillips, 4,608; and Herben 395 votes for the gubernatorial nomination.

The Luzerne County Court yesterday handed down another decision sustaining the perforations, which have been in use for the past several years under the direction of the court, as a protection against the substitution of facsimile and illegal ballots.

Should the Brown forces be able to have the ballots declared illegal then the Republican gubernatorial nomination would be lost by Pinchot to Brown.

In Pittsburgh, September 29, the Supreme Court is to hear the appeal taken by Brown from the decision of the Luzerne court which dismissed the appeal of the Brown attorneys.

With the certification, a lull comes in the legal battle over the ballots, until the supreme court hearing.

Miners President To Attend Meeting

150,000 Miners Represented In Big Meeting Being Held In New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 1.—John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was expected to arrive here today to take part in the joint meeting of the miners and of Pennsylvania anthracite operators in progress here. More than 150,000 miners are represented as well as the principal Pennsylvania operators.

Hope was held out yesterday that an agreement would soon be reached. A statement was issued which said the miners' demands were discussed. Conferees were reticent to discuss the situation.

The miners want maintenance of the present wage scale and certain improvements in working conditions. A modified form of the "check-off" system is also asked.

The operators so far have not asked for a reduction of wages but are expected to raise the question of costs.

It was pointed out that this is the first time the threat of a strike has been absent.

P. N. Harlan Retires Serves As Mail Man Thirty Four Years

Veteran Mail Carrier Walks
Many Thousands Of Miles,
Delivering Mail

ELLWOOD CITY, July 1.—P. N. Harlan, veteran mail carrier who will retire the first of August, has tramped over an area of 101,616 miles, or the equivalent of encircling the world four times with enough miles left for a trip to California for good measure.

That it took Mr. Harlan 34 years to walk this distance does not alter the fact. Thirty-four years ago he enlisted in the service of the government and served in that city for 17 years. After that, he was mail man on the Fomell rural route, which does not count, as he did not walk, but delivered mail with a buggy. He has been in Ellwood for 12 years, delivering mail in various sections. At the present time his route is Glen avenue and Ewing Park.

Trudging out in any weather, no matter how cold or wet, hot or damp, this little man could be seen each morning and afternoon at a certain hour making his rounds. Always cheery, he has a kind word for children as well as the "lady of the house" who is cheered by his friendly greeting.

Now getting out our figures we can show you how we figured out the distance walked by Mr. Harlan in the 34 years of service. The average postman's route is six miles twice a day for 292 days a year (after deducting Sundays and two weeks vacation). Twelve miles a day for 292 days gives up 3,504 miles in one year. He walked over this territory for 29 years, and multiplying this amount with 3,504 miles in one year we discover that the total distance walked in the 29 years was 101,616 miles.

Mr. Harlan began his two weeks vacation today, the last to be taken before leaving the employ of Uncle Sam.

Lawyers Need No Knowledge Of History

NEW YORK, July 1.—"Who discovered America?" is a detail entirely irrelevant to the qualifications necessary for practicing law, a decision by the Appellate Division in Brooklyn held recently. The application of John T. Brennan, who refused to answer this question and the one asking "What is the authority of the government under the Federal Constitution?" for a review by the committee on character of the Bar Association and fitness of its action refusing to certify him as a lawyer was upheld by the Appellate Division.

Still another heavyweight boxing contest has ended with a foul blow. But the foulest blow of all and the one too seldom commented upon is the wallop the public is getting in the pocketbook.—The Hamilton Ontario Spectator.

Nobody Wants Second Sharkey-Schmeling Go

Sharkey Wants Second Go With Schmeling; Will Get 37½ Percent

Plans For Second Sharkey-Schmeling Bout Are Now Going On

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 1.—A number of otherwise useful citizens expect to place themselves under lock and key at Madison Square Garden for the next day or two for the purpose of discussing the second battle of the boxes in all of its aspects and ramifications. Frankly, if they do this, I feel that there still is a chance for everybody, for if they discuss it at all, they may start laughing before it is too late and thus restore their sense of proportion. However, a man can't have a sense of humor and stay in the boxing racket, so I suppose the next episode of the Schmeling-Sharkey serial is to proceed as scheduled, provided the Herr Schmeling can be persuaded that it is all for the best.

Sharkey, of course, wants the fight because he lost it and still be worse than he is, which, frankly, is terrible. Schmeling, they say, also wants the fight, first, because he thinks he can win it and, second, because he will get 37½ per cent of the receipts. However, it is my understanding that 37½ per cent of nothing is not very much.

Nobody Wants Bout.

By this I mean to infer that, if it is really true that both Schmeling and Sharkey want this fight, they have achieved real distinction. It is my suspicion that nobody else wants it and, when the time comes, if at all, they will prove this by remaining absent in much profusion.

However, it is yet to be established that Schmeling is so anxious for the enterprise as his public utterances have indicated. He has left the matter in the hands of the Herr Jake, his manager, and the latter is empowered to sign only on terms that are satisfactory to the Herr Schmeling's real manager, who is the Herr Schmeling himself.

For one thing, the Garden people are trying to exercise a mortgage on him for 1931 and the man will have none of it. For another, the Herr Jake is attempting to have the New York boxing commission take the boxer off him so he can do his managing right there in the light of day and not in the future manner of a man sneaking home by the backstairs. The House issue, whereby Schmeling's step-manager is to be paid by Sharkey, also has given the boys a lot of convincing to do.

However, they say they will sign the documents not later than tomorrow and that, thereupon, everything will be in readiness for the gripping encounter. They have arranged for the fight to take place at the Yankee stadium. They have arranged with the boxing commission to pay off away with the world's title to the winner. They have arranged for everything, in fact, except the crowd.

Athletics Catcher Learning To Glide

Mickey Cochrane Famous Catcher Makes First Flight Monday

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Mickey Cochrane, star pitcher of the world champion Athletics baseball team, barred from taking up aviation by his baseball contract, has gone in for gliding. He made his first flight Monday when he sailed over the grounds of the Penlynn Polo Club near Ambler for a distance of 400 feet before landing.

Mickey failed to get more than four feet off the ground today, his Waco glider being towed by an automobile for a short distance then released to let the catcher get the knack of landing safely. He plans to devote most of his leisure time to learning gliding, Cochrane said.

Babe Ruth Hits Home Run No. 30

Yankees Continue Winning Streak By Toppling Chicago White Sox, 15-4

Chicago Cubs Strengthen First Place Lead By Defeating New York Giants

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 1.—Babe Ruth filled Broadway with joy and laughter today. The great man brought the only bright spot in the Yankees' 15 to 4 win over the cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox by hitting his homer No. 30 and climaxed this feat with the announcement he will open a hat store in the canyon of incandescent, and now for the giggle! The Bambino has not worn a hat in years.

An eight-run cluster in the first inning pincupped Joe Genewich to the sprinklers and the Chicago Cubs still stretched out in front of the National Park, humbling the Giants 10 to 3. Gabby Hartnett got his seventeenth homer.

Pitcher Seibold wouldn't budge an inch for the Pirates when the Bucs threatened in the eighth and ninth cantos and Boston took it, 6 to 5, and climbed into the fifth niche in League standing.

Eddie Rommel's great pitching decisioned the A's 3 to 1 over Detroit Cochrane, Simmons and Fox and the timely clouting for the A's.

Fred Marberry when his own game for the Senators over the Browns, 2 to 1 pitching better ball than Blaholder and then batting in the winning run in the ninth.

The Indians tomahawked Eddie Durham for five runs in the eighth and downed the Hub Sox to 3. Ho-dapp got a homer.

Rain washed away the Robins at St. Louis and Cincinnati and Philadelphia were idle.

Mannish bob and a liking for cigarettes are evinced by Betty Carstairs, 17-year-old English girl speedboat driver snapped on arrival at New York en route to Detroit for the speedboat races there. She has a "mystery boat" entered in the international competition.

New Scheme Worked Out In Case Of Foul

If Foul Ends Griffith-Risko Go, Forfeit Will Be Deducted From Gross Receipt

CHICAGO, July 1.—A plan was announced in detail today whereby customers will profit should a foul end the ten round bout tomorrow night between Johnny Risko, Cleveland baker boy, and Tuffy Griffith, Chicago heavyweight.

Under the terms of the scheme announced by Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, in the event of a foul the amount of the forfeited purse will be deducted from the gross receipts of a re-match between the two contestants. Then each ticket for the re-match will be sold at reduced rates to original ticket holders.

Both fighters, however, insisted that the bout will not end in a foul although Risko lost his first battle with Griffith on a foul.

Risko ended his boxing season yesterday by showing observers he could punch harder than ever. Griffiths also wound up his training and rules a 6 to 5 favorite to walk off with a victory.

ICELAND IS NOW 1,000 YEARS OLD

Oldest Parliament In World
Observes Anniversary

THINKVELLIR, Iceland, July 1.—Christian, king of Iceland yesterday opened the 1930 session of the Icelandic althing at the very spot where one thousand years ago this oldest parliament in the world first was convened.

King Christian stood upon a huge rock in the middle of the plain of Thingvald where grim Goatshead, the lawgiver, in ancient days, recited from memory the entire code of Icelandic law.

The ceremonies today were simple as of old, so simple as to obtain an almost religious aspect.

The broad plain, bounded on the south by a great lake, on the north by rugged snow-capped mountains, on the east and west by two great fissures of volcanic formation cut before dawn of history, was dotted with many thousands of people who had come from far corners of the earth.

Included in the vast throng of visitors were many Americans whose birth or ancestry was Icelandic. They watched with keen pleasure the unfolding of the impressive celebration.

Old Martin Gantz Corner Is Leased

School Board Agrees To Lease
Site To Frank M.
Hyde

Arrangements were made Monday evening, June 30, between Frank M. Hyde and the New Castle School Board whereby the property at the corner of Jefferson and Grant streets, now occupied by an old frame house, are to be leased to Mr. Hyde for a period of two years at a rental of thirty dollars per month.

If the school board does not sell the entire plot in that time, which includes the old Martin Gantz building, Mr. Hyde has the privilege of renewing the contract for a period of three years at a rental of $50.00 per month, plus one cent per gallon for every gallon of gasoline sold in excess of 5000 gallons per month.

Mr. Hyde will raise the old frame house now standing, erect a gas station and commence operations there in the near future.

French Women Lose Zest For Aviation

PARIS, July 1.—French women apparently took a greater interest in air flying during the pioneer period before the Great War than they do today. Of the 19 French women who have qualified for the pilot's license, 12 of them passed their examinations between 1903 and 1914. One of them is now lecturing in the interest of aviation and several others have abandoned flying for marriage. Two other women fliers are soon expected to qualify for pilot's licenses.

On the other hand, French girls and women, who for years practically took no interest in sports, are now playing football, hockey, basketball and running cross country races in increasing numbers. Perhaps they play shorter periods of football than the men and their cross country races are seldom more than two miles, but they show no lack of vim and energy in everything they are doing. Tennis and swimming, riding and mooring can claim as many devotees as among the men.

One of the most strenuous French sportswomen, Violette Morris, recently created quite a little stir in Paris by insisting upon wearing trousers wherever she went. The court dismissed her suit for four thousand dollars damages, and ruled that the wearing of trousers by a woman, even though she be a fervent sportsman, and even for such sports as motorcycling, was out of place and not to be encouraged. Miss Morris appeared in court in a blue lounge suit with gray necktie and pearl pin. The women's Sport Federation was represented by women lawyers.

Belgium Protests U. S. Tariff Rates

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 1.—The Belgian government today was preparing a note to the United States protesting against the tariff under the new protection bill passed through the United States Senate. FROM TEED GREEN

Central Press Golf Artist-Writer.
The points shown in the illustration are those most essential to the drive.

You have seen so many golfers tee off in just this position, and when they do get a good ball, it is only by luck, and with no amount of consistency.

The whole action, as we have said many times before, is in the backswing, and when a golfer swings back in this manner he will never get away with any degree of accuracy.

His whole body is swayed to the left, and he is completely off balance. The head at (A) should have been stationary. The right hand at (B) should be dropped to permit the right arm to stay in close to the body.

The point at (C) should be still, as stiff as possible. You cannot get the left arm too stiff in golf. The point at (D) should be the pivot upon which to unwind the body on the backswing.

The point at (E) should be pointing well into the ball and the weight balanced on the feet at (D).

This, we must admit, is a great deal to remember when hitting the ball, but accumulate them one at a time, and it should not take more than a week of practice to get them organized into one stroke.

Golfers make the mistake of scoring every time they start.

Forget the card for a few weeks and try to learn the swing. The golfer can do only one thing at a time. Practice or score. Learn to hit first and lower scoring will follow.

Summer Tourists To Enjoy Winter Sports

(International News Service.)
MOUNT SHASTA, Cal., July 1.—Winter sports, including coasting on a field of snow thirty feet deep and two miles long, will be offered to summer tourists here with the completion of the new Mount Shasta Snowline Boulevard, extending sixteen miles from the Pacific Highway at Mount Shasta.

Five miles of the new highway have been completed and it is expected that the United States Forest Service will build the rest of the road this year.

The snow fields cannot be reached as present except on foot or on horseback, but when the road is completed, motorists will be able to reach the snow after an hour's drive up the slope of the mountain.

The boulevard will end at the Wagon Glacier, which grinds out millions of tons of rocks and mud each year from the side of Mt. Shasta.

Count William Stribling Of Georgia In!

BY JACK SORBS
Central Press Sports Cartoonist-
Writer

Among the contenders for Mr. or Mrs. Max Schmeling's strange heavyweight crown we must now list a name, old to American ring followers but new to the current heavyweight contender field.

We refer to Willie Stribling, the pride of Macon, Ga., and sometimes a first rate, very good fighting man. Bill's one-round smothering of Otto Von Porat has established the Georgian man as a very great menace to Maxie's regime. The battle of the canebrakes is no palooka, not a rainy mile glancing over the field he seems to have as good a right as anyone else to be the next man to step inside the ropes with the new champ.

Don't think Maxie would be any too glad to take him on. The Kink of the Canebrakes is no palooka, not a rainy mile glancing over the field he seems to have as good a right as anyone else to be the next man to step inside the ropes with the new champ.

MORAVIA STOP

ALLIANCE CHURCH NOTES

Ellwood City, Christian worker from Detroit, gave an inspiring message at the Sunday morning service of the Alliance church to a large congregation. Mr. Gay was formerly a member of the local church, this added much to the Savor of the service. A selection was rendered on the musical saw by the pastor.

There was also a closing service of great inspiration at the 8:00 p.m. session. Master Chester Logie, high school boy of Ellwood City, and also a consecrated Christian, spoke to a good congregation on the subject of "Abraham's true sign of the cross." Several expressed their delight in hearing him again.

Miss Una Crisp who was scheduled to speak at the evening did not make her train for the Ellwood City engagement and was so tired from her long trip was advised by the pastor not to try and come for the Moravia service.

Some regret has been expressed as to not knowing of the time of broadcasting on the air from W. L. F. W. Oil City where the pastor Rev. T. J. Keegan assisted Thomas Nouth Carter famous convict evangelist on Friday morning and Sunday afternoon with music, but will announce it at the next opportunity to broadcast over that station.

New Enforcer Takes Control In Metropolis

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 1.—Andrew McCampbell, New York's new prohibition administrator, assumed his duties today on the heels of a fiery swan song by his predecessor, Major Maurice Campbell.

Campbell, for three years administrator here, resigning rather than accept a transfer to Boston, issued a public statement in which he said prohibition cannot hope to succeed and charging Republican politicians wanted him exiled from New York so they could obtain brewery, whiskey and alcohol permits for powerful friends.

McCampbell announced that he planned no spectacular raids but said he would strike hard at the sources of liquor supply and distribution in an effort to dry up New York. He said he believed prohibition could be enforced.

Campbell's explanation of his removal from New York was as follows:

"There are certain brewery permits, whiskey permits and alcoholic permits that local politicians and certain administration officials in Washington feel must be restored in order to secure necessary support for the Republican ticket in New York next fall. With me in charge of permits in New York, treasury officials know these permits will not be issued."

Regarding his views on prohibition, Campbell said:

"Prohibition is not the logical solution for temperance in our form of government. I now publicly advocate repeal of the eighteenth amendment before our nation is consumed by the fires of its consequences."

Schmidt Receives New Explanation

Overheard Conversation Explains Rampage Of Cow At Mission

Some days ago L. Schmidt of the Castle Hill Mission reported that some person had loosed one of his cattle and had apparently taken it through some adjoining gardens for the purpose of causing destruction and also causing Mr. Schmidt trouble. The tent in which meetings are being held had also been opened up. At the time, it was thought to be the work of boys.

Mr. Schmidt, however, has come upon an explanation in a rather unusual manner, through Frank Vandergift and Thomas Caldwell, who overheard a man telling the story the following night, while seated on a bench in the Public Square.

According to the story they overheard, the man, who had just been released from prison after serving eight years, had arrived in town without friends or money and was directed to the Castle Hill Mission for a night's lodging, and assistance in getting a job.

He got lost and wandered out the Harlansburg road. Finally he returned to the city and through some Italian boys was directed to the right place.

It was rather late and quite dark and in wandering about the place seeking some person, he got in among the cattle of the Mission.

He happened to get beside the stake to which Queenie, the Holstein, in question, and she became excited by his presence and the first thing, he knew, she had him fast to the stake by going around and around him in her excitement.

Finally she got close enough for him to loosen the snap on the chain and she started off. He followed her trying to prevent her getaway and the chase led him through the gardens damaged.

Eventually he got back and he entered the tent to keep watch on her. In the early morning, he heard the owner of one of the gardens as he complained and then the police arrived and afraid that he might be discovered he hid behind the organ in the tent for sometime, until he was able to make his getaway without being discovered.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things around New Castle

That creaking sound around the office early today was not a door with a rusty hinge. It was the engineer, and the squeaking came from joints that cried out against this thing of throwing a hoe into the ground and pulling it out again, hour after hour, till the shades of night were pulled.

This thing of working a succotash farm has its advantages, and again it has its disadvantages. The advantages would show a number of things, among them a coat of tan that looks like a seashore special and callouses on the hands that look like a couple of months of mountain golf. The disadvantages are that now and then a hinge in the back goes haywire and starts creaking right out loud.

There is much in common between golf and gardening. The clubs are not quite the same shape, with the cost of the golf clubs considerably more. To play golf properly one needs a set of clubs numbering about 10 clubs matched. To stroke a succotash farm one needs a bag of clubs also, say about three, a hoe, rake and a spade.

The most worked racket at the present time is the clearing house number business. Got a very indignant protest from one of the boys last night over the clearing house totals. Seems like one paper had it ending in 840 and the News had it ending 480. You can see how put out the boys would be.

It's a great racket. You take a number and if the clearing house total that day corresponds with your figure you win something, providing you can find the fellow who sold you the ticket. Otherwise you win yourself three home made cheers.

Now that the Croton Avenue paving job is getting started, the question is will it be finished for the fair in August. Henry Golder says it will if he can get a fair break in the weather. In the meantime the detour around the Eastbrook road will not be a bad one and customers anything is worth submitting to get rid of that corduroy street from the car line to the city line on Croton Ave.

The church at the corner of East Washington and Butler is now beginning to show shape. The steel skeleton is going up fast, and a corner of stonework has been set up. When the stone masons and the street pavers get through out on Butler Avenue a fellow will think he has lost his way.

And what a direction marker the new Epworth church will be for strangers. "Just go up Washington street brother, until you see a big stone church and then turn left."

Attend Cleveland

Convention Sunday

As delegates and visitors from the local chapter of Hadassah Mr. and Mrs. L. Sander, Mrs. Jacob Levine and daughter, Mrs. Charles Levine, Mrs. A. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. L. Kohn attended the 33rd annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America held in the Statler Hotel at Cleveland Sunday.

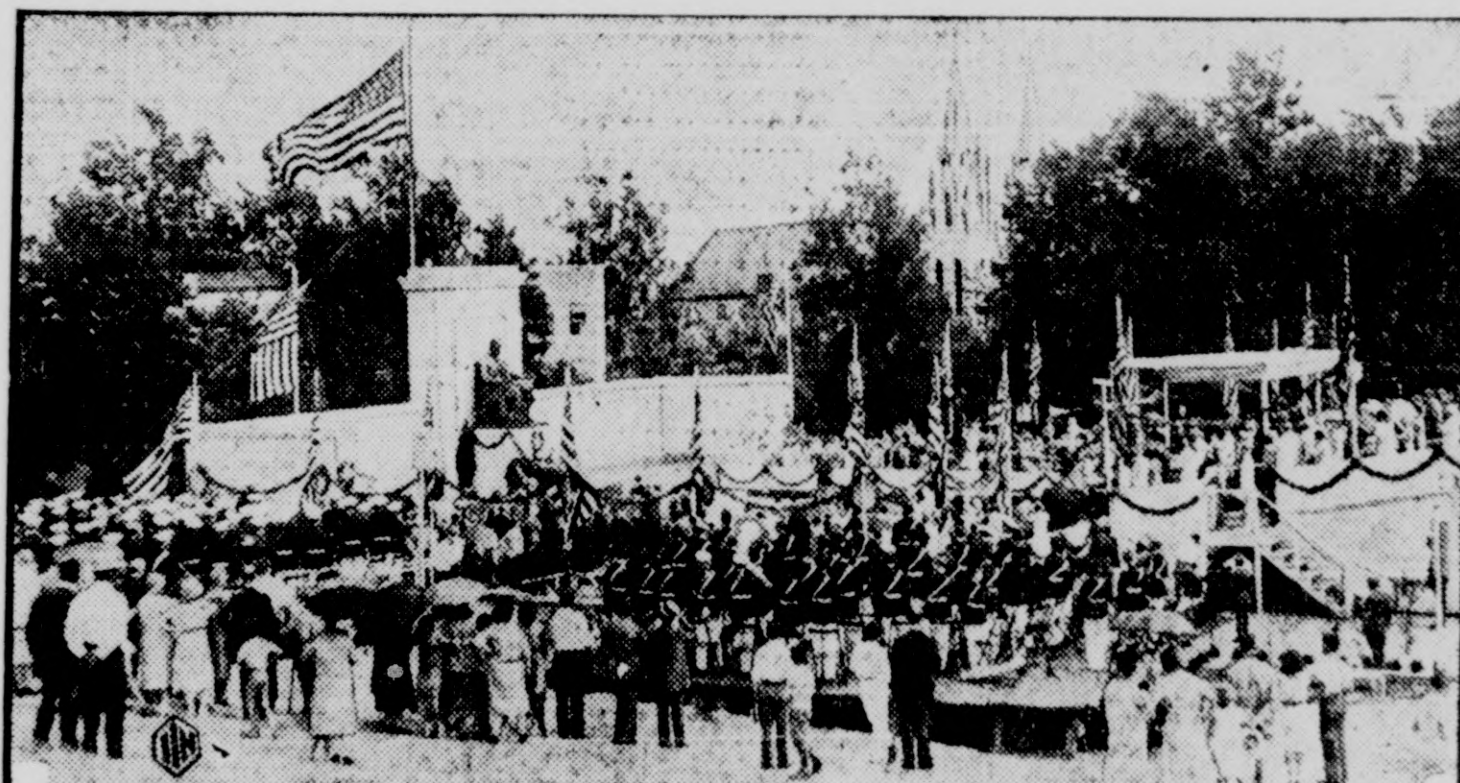

The principal session of the convention was held in the Cleveland public auditorium where thousands gathered to hear the Zionist problems discussed.

A pleasing feature of the convention was the magnificent banquet tendered the delegates Sunday evening in the ball room when speakers of national prominence addressed the assemblage. Rabbi J. G. Heiler of Cincinnati presided at this session and addresses were given by G. Hopkins, city manager of Cleveland and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of the Cleveland Temple.

Another important event during the day's activities was the dedication of the Hebrew Garden, which was presented to the city of Cleveland, in the name of the Zionist Organization of America, by Louis Lipsky, president of the organization, and was accepted by the mayor of Cleveland.

AGAIN KONJOLA SHOWS HOW IT "MAKES GOOD"

Pittsburgh Resident Relates How New Medicine Proved To Be Exactly What He Needed.

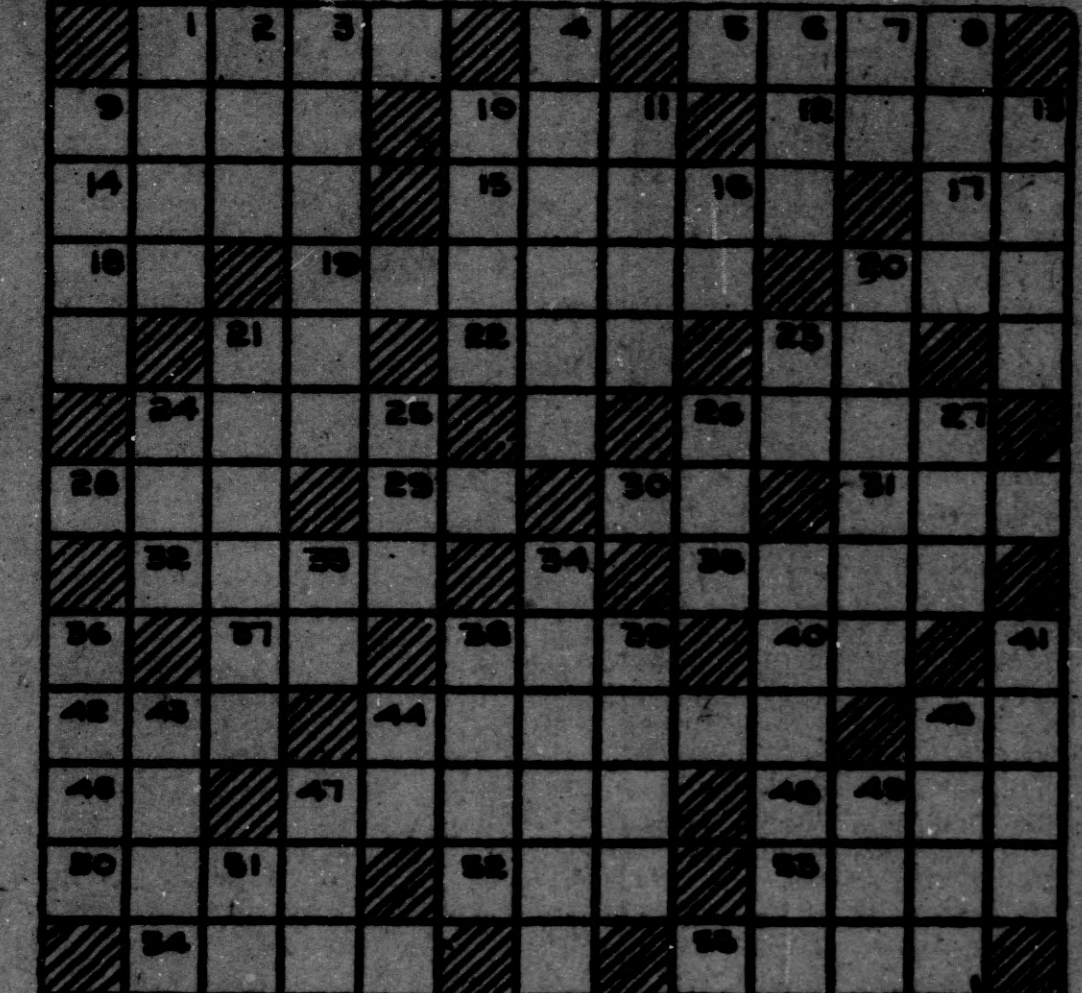

MR. MARK F. LOVETT

What mightier recommendation can a medicine have than the grateful, sincere and enthusiastic endorsement and praise of those who know what Konjola has done and can do? Give thought to the words of Mr. Mark F. Lovett, 40 East Rosedale Avenue, Bellevue, Pittsburgh, who says:

"I was generally run down in health; weak, tired and worn out each morning. Gas and bloating followed meals, and I had headaches and dizzy spells. I spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief. I paid as high as fifty dollars for examinations. Then Konjola was recommended. Konjola surely made good. Every morning I am refreshed, ready for the day's work. Gas and bloating have disappeared; my food digests properly; bowels are in fine condition and headaches are less frequent. It is worth a lot to get such relief, and I cheerfully endorse Konjola, the medicine that gave it to me."
Konjola cleanses and stimulates the ailing organs and rids the system of poisons. There is only this, in there room for health.
Konjola is sold by Love & McGowan, the druggists, 204 E. Washington St., this city.

A PERFECT STICK
"HO, HUM! I wonder what time it is," remarked Brown Beetle, squinting up at the sun. "I promised to meet Mrs. Brown Beetle early in the forenoon and go househunting. She'll think something has happened to me and when she finds nothing has—that I haven't kept my word—my, won't I catch it!" Brown Beetle winked at Peter. "Guess I better be getting along. A nuisance, moving, but a green frog recently has settled down in our neighborhood, settled much too close to our front door for comfort. By the way, I wonder where wife is? Here comes Mr. Measurer. Maybe he can tell me."
"Who in the world is Mr. Measurer?" asked Peter, peering about, but seeing no one, although he did notice a stick floating near him in the water. "Where is the fellow?" Brown Beetle, however, paid no attention to Peter's question, but addressed an invisible somebody.
"Good afternoon, Water Measurer. How are you today? And have you seen anything of my good wife? If you have, tell me, is she far away?"
"Hellow, Brown Beetle," squeaked a faint voice, that seemed to come from far off. "Pardon me for not seeing you, but you know business comes before pleasure with me and I am so interested in measuring off this pool that I am most absent-minded. Friends are always scolding me for passing them by without greeting. I don't mean to be rude. It's just that I keep my eyes on my work. Dear me, how annoying. I have measured this shore line five times this morning and every time the leg's lengths are different."
Next: "Water Measurer on the Job."

Rat Dog Thirteen Days In Tunnel

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 1.—Nothing daunted by 13 days' entrapment in a rat tunnel two and a half feet underground, Pete, a terrier owned by James L. Docherty, today was sniffing about for new rat holes to conquer.
Pete's enthusiasm for the rat chase led him 20 feet along a narrow tunnel starting in the cellar of his master's home, where he became wedged in, unable to advance or retreat.
Thirteen days after he first sighted his quarry, Pete was dug out by Docherty who had given the dog up for lost until he heard a faint bark which seemed to come from a rat hole in the cellar. A hot milk diet quickly restored Pete's enthusiasm for hunting.

Fur Dealers To Have Arbitration Court
(International News Service)
LEIPZIG, July 1.—America is well represented at the first International Fur Congress which opened here recently with delegates from thirty fur producing countries throughout the world. The Congress was called to order by Dr. Curtius, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Germany. Although the fur trade is the oldest in the world it has never before held a congress to organize its interests. Since the United States is the largest fur producing and consuming country, it is expected to play an important part. The meetings are being held during the International Fur and Hunting Exposition which will be open at Leipzig during the summer.
The first Fur Congress will discuss twenty questions of pressing interest to the trade. An international court of arbitration is to be formed to act as a court of appeal for questions arising in the widely scattered countries in which furs are gathered. It is planned further to set up an international credit bureau to supply information to the trade and facilitate business. The Congress will pass upon rules governing humane methods of trapping fur bearing animals throughout the world.

JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, July 1.—A young man of Manhattan shot his wife while she sat in her car, and then drove off to the hospital looking like a madman.

A man who'd do a thing like that is no gentleman.

WELCOME CAL

Old Calhoun has signed up with a metropolitan newspaper to contribute a daily article on anything that tickles his fancy, and the New York columnists are mildly speculating whether the professor on his advent into the ranks of the press.

One of the brethren wondered out loud the other day how long it will be before Mr. Calhoun starts writing pieces on "How Hard It Is to Keep Up Day After Day." And with self-conscious and apologetic verbal stuff he adds, "All of us do it."

Don't listen to him, Cal. He's giving you a bum steer. All of us do not do it. A few of us regard it as an impertinence for a columnist to whine day after day about how hard a job it is for him to fill his allotted space.

Readers aren't interested in that sort of tripe. If the conditions of a job are too great for you, quit it and give someone else a chance.

Anyone who takes money for a slipshod or careless job is picking the boss's pocket. And there's nothing I ever heard of that absolves a columnist from this tenet.

ANOTHER MATTER

New York Volstead Vigilantes committed an awful "fox pass" the other day when they "hunted" the dress suit of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and the Central Park Casino by staging a raid during the dinner hour, pinching several of the servers and questioning of the guests. The Ritz waiters have been charged with "possession," while the management of the Casino merely is called upon to say it was a lie—that they were not participating in "set-ups" (the Volsteaders' term).

stead an term for ginger ale and cracked ice.

Naturally, New York is annoyed at the thing. It's all right for the Vigilantes to get rough with a garish, second-string Broadway hotel, as they did a short time ago. Vigilantes must live. But it's a different matter when it comes to disturbing the stained-glass air of sanctity pervading such golf-leaf joints as The Ritz and The Casino.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL

The prohibition situation in New York is getting badly dented up. The old-time clarity of distinction that characterized "enforcement" is fast disappearing.

For example: A Federal judge recently remarked that he entered the dining room of a mid-town hotel with the idea of tying on the nose tag and was pained and shocked to see a diner at a nearby table—a flunk in human form—extract a flask from his standard patrol pocket and proceed to pour liquor into a glass, with no interference from the corps of surround waiters and bus boys.

With the laws of evidence as they exist today, what some of us would like to know is how did this flunk know it was flunked? The mere fact that it flowed from the cradle of a flask is in itself no valid basis for the Judicial Owl's presumption.

And, going further, what right has this Federal judge to stigmatize an anonymous guest—to send him out into the world forever under a distasteful charge of having sat at a disreputable table and wet his whistle?

Those who feel that The Unknown Drinker has sustained violence to his Constitutional prerogative at the hands of His Honor will please signify in the usual method.

These opposed?

The eyes have it (with a little ginger ale and cracked ice on the side).

BEARS CLUB

Bears Club of the South Side will hold an important business meeting in the Roumanian hall this evening. President Rocco Guidio desires the presence of all members. The meeting starts at 7:30.

Luzerne County Vote Certified

Lull in Legal Battle Over Vote At Luzerne Primary

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 1.—Today, the forty-first since the primary, the election returns of Luzerne county have been certified by the County Commissioners and sent to the secretary of the Commonwealth, at Harrisburg.

The long drawn out delay was occasioned by the efforts of attorneys representing Francis Shunk Brown to the discarded as illegal and vitiated, the ballots in all of the districts except those using voting machines, because the paper ballots were perforated.

As certified, the returns give Clifford Pinchot 42,975; Brown 15,516; Phillips, 4,609; and Herben 393 votes for the gubernatorial nomination.

The Luzerne County Court yesterday handed down another decision sustaining the perforations, which have been in use for the past several years under the direction of the court, as a protection against the substitution of facsimile and illegal ballots.

Should the Brown forces be able to have the ballots declared illegal then the Republican gubernatorial nomination would be lost by Pinchot to Brown.

In Pittsburgh, September 29, the Supreme Court is to hear the appeal taken by Brown from the decision of the Luzerne court which dismissed the appeal of the Brown attorneys.

With the certification, a lull comes in the legal battle over the ballots, until the supreme court hearing.

Miners President To Attend Meeting

150,000 Miners Represented in Big Meeting Being Held in New York

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 1.—John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was expected to arrive here today to take part in the joint meeting of the miners and of Pennsylvania anthracite operators in progress here. More than 150,000 miners are represented as well as the principal Pennsylvania operators.

Hope was held out yesterday that an agreement would soon be reached. A statement was issued which said the miners' demands were discussed. Conferees were reticent to discuss the situation.

The miners want maintenance of the present wage scale and certain improvements in working conditions. A modified form of the "check-off" system is also asked.

The operators so far have not asked for a reduction of wages but are expected to raise the question of costs.

It was pointed out that this is the first time the threat of a strike has been absent.

N. Harlan Retires Serves As Mail Man Thirty Four Years

Western Mail Carrier Walks
Many Thousands Of Miles,
Delivering Mail

ELLWOOD CITY, July 1.—P. N. Harlan, veteran mail carrier who will retire the first of August, has tramped over an area of 191,616 miles, or the equivalent of encircling the world four times with enough miles left for a trip to California for good measure. That is not Mr. Harlan's 34 years of service in the service of the government, but the miles he has walked in his city for 17 years. He was mail man on the Pennsylvania rural route, which does not count, as he did not walk, but delivered mail with a buggy. He has been in Ellwood for 12 years, delivering mail in various sections. At the present time his route is Glen avenue and Spring Park.

Providing out in any weather, no matter how cold or wet, hot or damp, this little man could be seen each morning and afternoon at a certain hour making his rounds. Always cheery, he has a kind word for children as well as the "lady of the house" who is cheered by his friendly greeting.

Now getting out our figures we can show you how we figured out the distance walked by Mr. Harlan in the 34 years of service. The average postman's route is six miles twice a day, or 12 miles a day (after deducting Sundays and two weeks vacation). Twelve miles a day for 232 days gives up 2,784 miles in one year. He walked over this territory for 29 years, and multiplying this amount with 2,784 miles in one year we discover that the total distance walked in the 29 years was 101,616 miles. Mr. Harlan began his two weeks vacation today, the last to be taken before leaving the employ of Uncle Sam.

The club which has recently been organized has much up to date information concerning detours, outfit schedules and steamship connections on hand for the use of tourists. They also have some splendid maps of the United States and Canada which are available for those wishing to motor over the highways during the week ends.

The motor club which is affiliated with the Pennsylvania motor federation of the American Automobile Association has adopted a four colored emblem to replace the old metal plated one used since the club started several years ago.

Lawyers Need No Knowledge Of History

NEW YORK, July 1.—"Who discovered America?" is a detail entirely irrelevant to the qualifications necessary for practicing law, a decision by the Appellate Division in Brooklyn held recently. The application of John T. Brennan, who refused to answer this question and the one asking "What is the authority of the government under the Federal Constitution?" for a review by the committee on character of the Bar Association and fitness of its action refusing to certify him as a lawyer was upheld by the Appellate Division.

Tells Americans Not To Fear Paris Buses

International News Service
PARIS, July 2.—American tourists need not be afraid to ride in the big sightseeing buses in Paris, according to T. Stuart Smith of Chicago, who has been spending several weeks in France after investigating the application of excess insurance to various casualty and insurance bond in England.

The French chauffeurs and especially the drivers of these heavy buses are the best in the world, said Mr. Smith. "Then, too, I find that almost all the common carriers in France protect themselves and the public with sufficient liability insurance. The owners of the buses do not operate them but sublet them by contract to a second party who deals with the public. The owners usually carry a primary protection of about one million francs and the contractor a contingent policy of five million."

In many cases, these limits are even larger and some smaller, of course, depending upon the amount of business done.

Auto Saves Boy From Killing His Dog

WICHITA, Kan., July 2.—A. J. Busch, who operates a shoe repair shop in 1726 S. 17th, says that his dog needs a legislative relief, especially the ones who have sons big enough to carry shotguns.

Driving west of Wichita Busch noticed a boy with a gun and a dog. As he approached closer, the dog ran onto the pavement and was killed beneath the wheels of Busch's car.

Having been a boy once and knowing a boy's love for his dog, Busch wanted to make it right.

"Take this five dollars. I'm sorry this happened. Will this five dollars fill the bill?" Busch asked.

The boy nodded his head, took the bill, and then said:

"Yep, that makes $7. You see the dog had been killing chickens, and I gave him $2 to take him down the road and kill him."

"But now I won't have to," he added.

"Well," said Mr. Busch as he stepped on his starter and drove on west.

Well Planned Search Brings Apprehension In Death Mystery Case

HAROLD H. SCHROEDER

By Central Press.
MOBILE, Ala., July 2.—Except for an hour Earl C. Dykes spent crawling in a densely weeded vacant lot here while a noonday summer heat beat down upon his back, Harold Herbert Schroeder might still be missing.

It was under these circumstances that Dykes, single-handed, accomplished the surprise capture of the 35-year-old key figure in the Indiana death mystery case which developed when a half-cramped human body yet unidentified, was found near Indianapolis in the ruins of a burned automobile belonging to Schroeder.

Himself at first believed by police to have been the death victim, Schroeder, who ran an auto radiator repair business in Mobile, had disappeared and the elapse of nearly three weeks had failed to reveal what had become of him.

Ancient Chinese Used Fingerprints

International News Service
CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—The finger print system of identification used almost entirely today in criminal work, had its origin, in the Orient several hundred years before the Christian era, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History here.

On exhibition at Field Museum are a number of fingerprinted clay seals from China employed to authenticate documents.

The Chinese had little or no reason to use fingerprinting in identification of criminal characters, Dr. Laufer states.

"Crime never assumed vast proportions in China," he declared "when crimes were committed, detection and capture were comparatively easy, and nothing like a criminological science was required for China's patriarchal organization of government."

The Pity of It

was back in Mobile. It was even more definite. It pictured him as reputedly hiding in a certain large vacant lot overgrown by thick weeds in some places taller than a man's head.

Dykes set about on a lone mission of capturing the missing man. He notified the sheriff of his trip and borrowed a pair of handcuffs which he took along with his own 45-caliber revolver as he quietly entered the weeded vacant lot at noon. Dykes stretched himself out on the ground and began crawling foot by foot among the towering weeds. In an hour, Dykes said, he came upon Schroeder lying down, seemingly asleep.

Temple Given Porter's Place

Congressman Temple Is Now Head Of Foreign Affairs Committee

FIRST ELECTED IN LAWRENCE DISTRICT

Under the conflict rule of the House of Representatives, following the death of Congressman Stephen G. Porter of Pittsburgh, Congressman Henry W. Temple of Washington, Pa., has been elected to the chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. This committee is one of the major committees of the House and consists of fourteen Republicans and eight Democrats.

While Dr. Temple has long been a factor in Congress, his elevation to the chairmanship of this most important committee makes him more of a national figure than ever before. He also succeeds a Pennsylvania Congressman at the head of this committee.

To Follow Some Policies.
Dr. Temple has been the ranking member of the committee since the death of Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts and as ranking member had been closely associated with Congressman Stephen G. Porter. The same policies adopted by Congressman Porter will be followed by Congressman Temple it is said.

Lawrence county has a peculiar interest in the career of Congressman Temple. In 1912 when the Bull Moose party was in its heyday, he was elected to represent the 26th district in Congress, composed then of Lawrence, Washington and Beaver counties. The Bull Moose delegates from this county were largely responsible for Dr. Temple's nomination and it was only after some persuasion that he was induced to accept it. At the time it was felt that a Bull Moose candidate for Congress would have little chance but his personal popularity was such that he was elected.

In the campaign of 1914 he was defeated by William M. Brown of this city, but following Mr. Brown's death shortly after, Dr. Temple was again elected. Since that time he has been in Congress continuously, although the district he now represents does not include Lawrence county, it covering Washington and Greene counties.

U. P. Minister
By profession Dr. Temple is a minister of the United Presbyterian church and from 1905 to 1912 was professor of history and political science in Washington and Jefferson college.

He was born in Belle Center, O., March 3, 1864. In 1890 he graduated from Geneva college and in 1891 from the Cumberland Theological Seminary in Allegheny, Pa. Later he was pastor of churches in Leeburg, Pa., and Washington, Pa., and in 1898 became assistant professor of political science in Washington and Jefferson college. When war with Spain was declared Dr. Temple enlisted as chaplain of the 10th Cavalry and went with the regiment to the Philippines after the Cuban trouble was settled.

In point of service he is the third oldest member of Congress in the Pennsylvania delegation, Congressman George S. Graham of Philadelphia and Congressman Edgar S. Kline of Williamsport Pa. being older.

His elevation to the chairmanship of the important Committee on Foreign Affairs is a source of satisfaction to his many friends in Lawrence county.

Congressional Aspirant, Believing Women Will Elect Him, Offers Hand And Half Of Salary If He Wins Next November

Congress Candidate Bisbee in cornfield on ranch where he works for $16 a month

By Central Press
SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 2.—Some women between the ages of 17 and 70 stand to win the hand and half the $10,000 yearly salary of Congressman Fordyce W. Bisbee, provided, Fordyce is elected to congress next fall from the Eleventh Iowa congressional district.

He is the democratic candidate in the district, running against the Republican incumbent, Ed. Campbell, only Iowa congressman to vote against the new tariff bill.

Bisbee, former bank president, son of a wealthy Iowa family, and long prominent in business, political and social affairs of the district, believes the votes of all single women of the district will send him to congress, hence his matrimonial intention. He specifies that the woman whom he accepts must be able to darn socks.

and promises to turn over half his yearly salary to her. He also expects widows and widowers to give their votes to him, and these, combined with the votes, will turn the trick. The candidate is for modification of the prohibition law. He would have the government sell liquor in limited amounts to individuals and make purchases from bootleggers' felons.

Bisbee lately was reported murdered and his body cremated in a straw-stick, and for some time his friends believed he really had been slain. But that was an error.

Bisbee now is working at $16 a month on a ranch, near Odebolt, Iowa, and drives a span of mules while cultivating corn. Bisbee believes in the philosophy of Tolstoy, Russian writer, that every man ought to spend a part of his time doing actual manual productive labor.

Philadelphia Has Nearly Two Million Population

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Philadelphia still falls far short of the 2,000,000 population figure long hoped for by enterprising citizens despite all methods of checking on the latest census statistics. Harry J. Lusher, chairman of the local board reported today.

The unofficial total after all possible districts had been added to the city's total area now stands at 1,500,000. This represents a gain of less than 5 per cent since 1920 or one-half of one per cent increase a year.

The original tabulations of the city's growth showed many losses in most of the various wards and the resultant storm of protest caused William M. Stewart, National Director of the Census, to give the city board a month's notice of grace ending July 1 to recheck the various districts. The recheck added a few thousand more to the first count but still found the city behind Detroit and in fourth rank among the large cities of the nation.

Scouts Cease Kite Flying When Thunder Storm Breaks

(Special To The News)
CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 2.—With a rear of the cannon Boy Scout Camp John M. Phillips twice with a bang Tuesday morning. Boys came from the bus and rushed to the rushing trough to take away the sleepy effect. After such a refreshing experience they felt like a water fight but this was soon checked by the "boom" coming over the top of the trail.

Inspection was won by hut No. 1. Tom Rambo is the leader. This makes the fourth time for this but to win inspection and it sure looks as if they are going to hold the banner all of the time. Every morning after breakfast, these boys can be seen cleaning their hut and getting it up and again. Other boys in the hut are Thompson, Lee, McCaskey, Ziegler, and McCaskey.

In the morning dip all boys reported to enjoy the fun. After two weeks of teaching there are but two boys who are not wearing a blue shirt and blue trousers when last seen.

Two more holes of the Hanchette golf course were opened this morning making a total of nine holes. The course will probably be finished some time today. It has become very popular and is nearly always in use.

Balls Stage Contest
A kite flying contest was staged in the afternoon with Scout Herbert der the directorship of Mac Latta. Instead of balls for a target, balloons were used. This contest was won by Scouts Gordon and Abbey South breaking the same number of balloons.

In the evening a volley ball game was played between the camp staff and the campers. The large camp hall was used instead of a volley ball. The camp staff won two games out of three from the campers.

The evening camping program was put on by the different huts of the camp. Each hut gave a short play, stunt, or exhibition. Among the most interesting was an intimate scene in a rustic setting. This act was given by a person who knows because he has been around one most of his life. Soon after, a call to quarters was given and all boys made ready to retire.

Work on the shoulders will be completed within a few weeks and other small jobs as well.

Inquiry was made by the Ellwood Chamber of Commerce in order that it might make plans for the joint celebration with Zellenop in opening the road.

Every assurance was given that would soon be able to save many miles by utilizing this connecting link from Greensburg and Lincoln Highway to Titusville.

The Holmes Construction company, contractors for the Portersville road, will begin working on that immediately, planning to have it completed by early autumn.

These two roads will be welcomed by every motorist and will connect Ellwood City with the main highways in all directions.

No Celebration In Ellwood Fourth July

ELLWOOD CITY, July 3.—Ellwood City people have plans for the celebration of July fourth, but most of them do not include staying at home. Members of the Wilbur-Randolph Post American Legion will join the Beaver Valley posts in the celebration at Junction Park.

Others plan to burn up gallons of gasoline in the old Elver. The Sunday school in the Church of God plans a picnic at Jackson Shop, with Mrs. Clara Miller heading the committee.

The Hungarian Presbyterian church is planning its picnic in the grove at the old Country club, where they will dance the Hungarian dances and serve Hungarian Goulash.

The Country club tea dance promises to be an event for society which will gather at this playhouse for an afternoon of bridge with club members and friends.

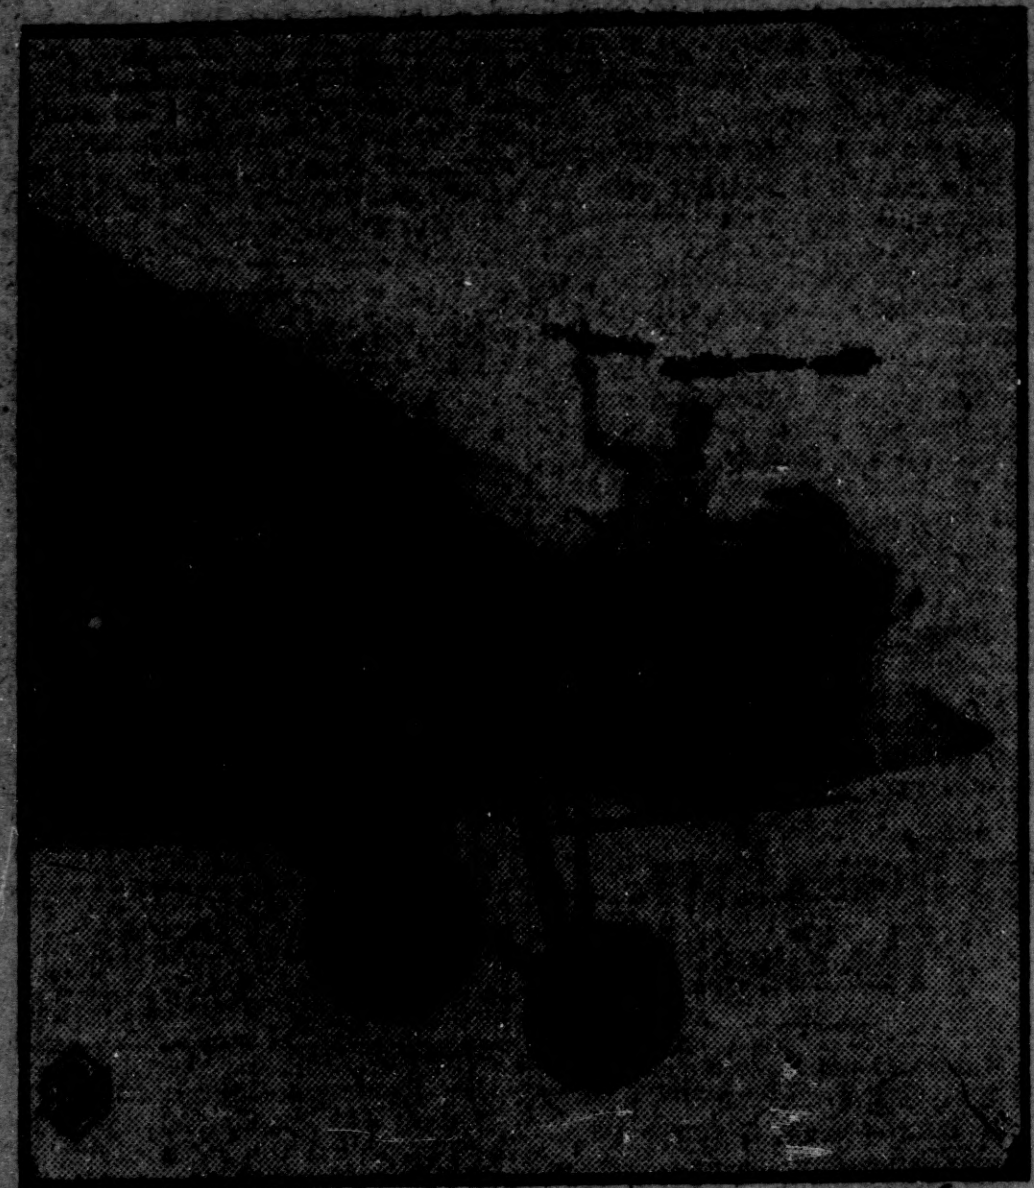

Although no fireworks are permitted to be set off in the borough limits, the children shall not lack for noise. Already most of them have been equipped with toy pistols and hundreds and hundreds of caps to shoot off.

ELLWOOD CITY WINS ANOTHER

Beaver Grays Are Defeated 3-1
On Ellwood Diamond
Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, July 3.—Another victory was annexed by the Ellwood City baseball club when they took the measure of the strong Beaver Grays on the local grounds by the close score of 3 to 1 in an interesting battle. This is the third consecutive victory for the Tubers as they triumphed over the Beaver crew last night.

Ellwood scored the first tally in the second frame and still another in the fourth while the visitors went scoreless. It was not until the sixth that the Tubers again chalked up a marker to make a total of three. In the eighth frame Watterson crossed the plate to account for Beaver's one pointer.

It was one of those kind of tilts that fans enjoy and the Ruskovic crew was forced to display a fine brand of ball to bump off the Grays who held second place in the Beaver County League.

Testa, a new face in the local lineup, twirled a fine game for the Tubers and was backed up with very good field work. He was very effective on the mound and also counted for a single. Foster started at the pitchers box for the opponents but was replaced by Hood in the seventh. The Ellwood sluggers riched these leads for four hits apiece while Testa allowed the Grays to collect ten.

Mike Sanders and Clarke enjoyed a good batting day with two hits apiece and the latter was also responsible for a run. F. Sanders hit for an extra base while Fitzgerald, Testa and Lattano had a bingle to their credit.

Sheehan, Corbett and Bushang lead the attack for the losers with two bingles each, but the Grays failed to make these hits good for tallies. Watterson hit a two bagger and secured the only run for his mates.

With three straight victories tucked away the Ruskovic crew is eagerly looking forward to the Fourth when they engage in two battles with the Beaver Falls Merchants. The morning game will take place at Beaver Falls and the afternoon tilt will be played on the local grounds. The Merchants are on the top berth in the league and a tough opponent to play twice in one day.

According to Business Manager, Al Thomas, arrangements have been made for the Homestead Grays to appear here on the 10th of July. Several other all star attractions are being negotiated by Thomas and fans may look forward to some real treats.

At the conclusion of the two-course luncheon served by Mrs. William Farrell and Mrs. Bert Hartung, the hostess endeavored to light the large cannon cracker. Failing to do so, she insisted that the guest of honor investigate.

China Now Proves A Puzzle Even To Chinese Themselves

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, July 3.—China, as a Chinese puzzle, always did puzzle foreign devils.

Now the Chinese themselves are beginning to admit that they are puzzled by it. State department officials who get their information "tailored" from the best available native sources, no longer can make heads nor tails out of it.

It is an unfair kind of puzzle. As fast as diplomats work it out, it changes. It combines the characteristics of a puzzle with the characteristics of a kaleidoscope.

For example, Nelson T. Johnson is our minister to China, and a nation's minister to a foreign country ought to have his official residence at the latter's capital.

But where is the capital of China? It was Peking up to a year or so ago, when Chang Tso-lin ceased to be president. However, upon chasing Chiang over the northern border into his own more special bailiwick of Manchuria (Chang was assassinated on the way, incidentally), Chiang Kai-shek transferred the government's headquarters to Nanking.

about 600 miles to the southward, with himself as president. He even changed Peking's name to Peiping, because "Peking" means "northern capital" in Chinese and Chiang wanted to belittle it.

So far, good. Capitals have been transferred before, like Russia's, from Leningrad to Moscow, and cities' names have been changed also, like St. Petersburg into Petrograd and then into Leningrad.

Minister Johnson and his fellow diplomats do not immediately move their households from Peiping to Nanking, since moving is an arduous undertaking in China, but they did have to open up offices and pass most of their time in the new capital, and they planned presently to move, bag and baggage.

Perhaps it was lucky that they took their time about it. Chiang has a rebellion on his hands and at the rate of progress it is making at present the prospect seems excellent that Peiping soon will be Peking again, and once more China's principal if not its exclusive capital.

And yet this is not altogether certain; not certain enough for Minister Johnson to have decided that it would be wise for him to send his office desk back to Peiping or Peking or whatever its name may be.

The rebels are known as the "northern coalition", and coalitions are notoriously unreliable. The northern coalition's head is Yen Hsi-shan, hitherto generally described as the "model governor of Shantung province." Model that is to say, he is very religious, but not exactly religious according to occidental ideas. In other words, to quote the missionaries, "his religion has all forms of religion left out of it."

Yen's chief lieutenant is Feng Yuh-shiang, widely famed as the "Christian general."

Feng's Christianity appears to be marked by a few minor omissions of relatively the same sort as Yen's religion. In one respect Feng holds all records; he has been on more sides of the last 15 years of fighting in China than any other general in the country.

He is a dandy scrapper and Yen probably owes most of his recent victories to him, in his campaign against Chiang, but when the moment comes to compute the net result it remains to be seen for what leader Feng decides he really won his victories—Yen or Chiang or himself or someone else entirely. Among others, he may decide that he won them for Chiang.

Haueh-liang, who lately has been mentioned as having framed up a deal with the northern coalition concerning the ownership of Shantung province.

Chang Hsueh-liang is a son of Chang Tso-lin, late war lord of Manchuria, referred to above as having been assassinated as he was retreating northward from Peking after being beaten by Chiang Kai-shek.

There are war lords and war lords in China, but the elder Chang was an exceptionally big one, despite the trimming he suffered. It was his inheritance much of his ability (which is still to be tested), as well as his cohorts and money, Feng is likely to consider himself better worth trying to than the model governor.

In addition to their number and differences of opinion among themselves, each leader has considerable military in his own ranks. Bandit groups, some of them many thousands strong, likewise are "too numerous to mention," as the school kids say.

And finally no one can tell with any definiteness how much communism, provided by Russia, is infused into the general mixture. There is some of it, anyway.

The truth is, a dozen or 20 major forces exist in China, constantly combining into alliances of two or three and then disintegrating and recombining into new patterns.

It represents a terrible puzzle for diplomats.

It was on the night of April 17, 1775, that Paul Revere made his memorable ride from old North Church, Boston, to arouse the patriots to whom credit is due for the independence which we celebrate this Fourth of July.

What a contrast between Paul Revere and the modern dispatch rider in the recent war for democracy. What a contrast, too, between the modern home with its many up-to-date conveniences and the homes of a few years ago. If your home furnishings are out of date, come to Haney's.
